Wadsworth's Dry Stand Meets With General Approval

Senator Wadsworth Plans for Substitution of a Constitutional and Workable Statute for the 18th Amendment—In Rockland and Westchester, on Way to New York.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP).—The average citizen is not supporting the prohibition law as he does either laws by reporting violations, either because he believes such violations are not fundamentally wrong or fears the homes of his friends will be closed to him, in the opinion of United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr.

The senator closed his upstate campaign for re-election here last night by explaining his views on prohibition and today, with Representative Ogden L. Mills, candidate for governor, was traveling down the Hudson valley toward New York.

Audience Applauds Pica.

The audience applauded the senator's plea for substitution of a constitutional and workable statute for the 18th Amendment, and approved also his statement that attempts to enforce total abstinence by legal compulsion have given rise to evils that menace the moral and political welfare of the country.

"The government is spending $30,000,000 a year," the senator said, "to stop the people from getting a drink while a large section of the populace is doing its level best to get it."

"They are all getting it," cried a voice from the audience, and the generous applause given his earlier statements was repeated.

Speaking With Mills.

The senator's campaign today carried him into Rockland and Westchester counties. He planned to speak with Mr. Mills at Suffern, Spring Valley and Nyack, and at night at Mt. Vernon and at Yonkers, where Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will join him.

The results of his motor bus tour of some 2,000 miles' upstate have been such as to lead Senator Wadsworth to hold the belief that his attitude on prohibition has received general approval.

Kiwanians Guests Of Dairy League

Dairy League to Entertain Kingston Kiwanis Club at Dinner at New Paltz on November 3.—Noted Speaker and Other Features.

On the evening of November 3 the Dairy League members of Ulster county will entertain the members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at a dinner in the Reformed Church parlors at New Paltz. The purpose of the meeting is to become better acquainted and to bring the dairymen and city men closer together.

Marketing problems will be talked over and the city folks informed of some of the problems which the dairymen face.

The speaker of the evening will be one thoroughly familiar with the topic, for President of the League George Slocum has been secured for the date. In addition to President Slocum several other interesting speakers have been planned for the entertainment program.

The affair will not be a stag meeting. The ladies are invited and unless the members bring their wives the evening's enjoyment will not be a success.

R. J. Service, Fred DuBois, and H. M. Eppes, the committee on arrangements, have sent out a letter to the dairymen getting forth all of the foregoing facts and also the fact that the capacity of the church parlors is limited and the number of diners must be known in advance. In accordance with this request, all dairymen and their wives who expect to attend are requested to send in reservations not later than October 27. Fred DuBois at New Paltz will make care of the reservations. There will be no tickets at the door.

Season's First Ice Formed Here

Thursday night the thermometers dropped below the freezing point in Kingston and the first ice of the season was formed in pools of water that lay in the streets. The first ice of the season was nothing but a thin film, but it was ice. This morning when householders awoke it was to find that there had been a heavy frost during the night.

Accident Kills Sheep.

While three men employed by Volney Duncan of South Cairo were driving a flock of sheep along the Catskill-Saugerties highway, an automobile traveling at a comparatively high rate of speed ran through the midst of the animals and killed eight of them. The number of the car was ascertained by one of the men and the number of the sheep has been sent a warrant for its arrest.

Pair at Holy Cross.

The Holy Cross fair will be held in the parish house commencing on November 30 and terminating on December 2.

Asks $30,000 for Husband's Death

Thursday afternoon in the Supreme court another negligence action was taken up for trial. Mary E. Tice as administratrix of the estate of her husband, Edward Tice, brings an action against Virgil H. Winchell of West Shokan to recover $30,000 for the death of her husband, who was injured in a collision with the Winchell car at Albany avenue and Maiden Lane on November 24, 1923.

Mr. Tice was struck by the Winchell car and afterwards was taken to Dr. Daniel Connelly's office and treated for an injured knee. Next day he was taken from his home to the Kingston City Hospital, where X-ray photographs were made and the injuries further examined.

Newton H. Fessenden, by F. C. Merritt, appears for the plaintiff and William D. Brinnier, Jr., and Roscoe Ellsworth appear for defendant.

Governor Smith Back in Mansion

Wagner and Smith Will Begin Rally in Metropolitan District Monday.—Wants Mills to Outline Proposal Administrative Changes.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP).—Back in the Executive Mansion after nearly two weeks of campaigning for re-election in upstate New York, Governor Smith rested today in preparation for his last two upstate appearances before election—tonight in Schenectady and tomorrow night in Albany.

With him at each place will appear Justice Robert F. Wagner, Democratic candidate for United States senator. Both candidates will leave Albany Monday for their first rally in the Metropolitan district Monday night, at Yonkers.

The governor opened his eastern New York campaign last night in Troy, with a demand that Ogden L. Mills, his Republican opponent, disclose at once changes in administrative policies which would be put in effect under a Republican administration, if Mr. Mills is elected.

Says Mills Should Outline Changes.

Quoting from a speech of Mr. Mills, who said that "Governor Smith and I differ radically in our conception of the functions of government," the governor declared that the Republican candidate should outline the changes which he proposed to make.

"That's a nice court of appeals phrase," said the governor "and if Congressman Mills is just talking for the purpose of having something to say, that is one thing. If on the other hand, he means what he says, he will have a radically different policy on many matters than that I have pursued. The people of the state know my policy, they are entitled to an explanation from him as to wherein his policies will differ from mine on important questions."

C. E. Convention Opens Saturday

The annual convention of the Ulster County Christian Endeavor Union will be held at Phoenixia on Saturday with three sessions, morning, afternoon and evening. The program has been published in The Freeman and should prove interesting to every Christian Endeavorer. It is expected that every society in the union will be well represented at the convention. A box luncheon will be held at noon and in the evening supper will be served the delegates by the entertaining society.

WOMAN GETS DIVORCE FROM KINGSTON MAN

An interlocutory decree of divorce $15 a week alimony and the custody of her three children has been granted Mrs. Anna E. Hahn of Albany, from Fred C. Hahn of Kingston. The papers, signed by Supreme Court Justice Pierce R. Russell, were filed with the Albany county clerk Thursday. They were married in Albany January 19, 1914. The children are Virginia, nine; Louis, eight and Frederick, four.

Detour at Catskill Bridge.

At a meeting of the town board of Catskill the lower bridge was ordered closed to traffic from 3 p. m. to 7 a. m. and all vehicles will make a detour which will be pointed out by signs placed in conspicuous positions near the structure. At no time will trucks be allowed to pass over the bridge. The order went into effect on Wednesday night and the action took place after a letter which was received from the Public Works Department of the state of New York recommending the closure of the structure until the truss had been repaired.

Dairymen's Meeting Postponed.

On account of the inability of Commissioner Harris of New York to be present and speak at the dairymen's meeting at Middletown on Monday, October 25, the meeting has been postponed indefinitely. Commissioner Harris has contacted the appropriate authorities and action has been sent out to the various counties of the postponement. The meeting will be held at some future date.

Firemen Fight Stubborn Blaze at Twaalfskill Club

Fire in Garage Adjoining Caretaker's House on Twaalfskill Golf Club Links Set Fire to House, Which Is Saved by Hard Work of Firemen.

This morning about 9 o'clock defective wiring set fire to the garage adjoining the caretaker's house on the Twaalfskill Golf Club links, causing a still alarm to be sent in to the fire department. The garage and a Chrysler sedan in the building were destroyed but the firemen managed to save the house after being forced to demolish a quarter of the structure to extinguish the fire.

When Acting Fire Chief Fred Leverich reached the golf links with the men from the Central Fire Station, who responded to the still alarm, he sent in a call to Cornell Hose which also responded. The garage was blazing fiercely when the firemen reached the scene and Chief Leverich realized that the house stood every chance of being razed by the fire, and placed his men at work removing the furniture.

Walter Buddenhagen, the caretaker, who resided in the house, assisted in carrying out the furniture, and sustained an injured hand which was treated at the Kingston City Hospital.

After most of the furniture had been removed, Chief Leverich set his men to work tearing the siding off the house nearest the garage, which had caught fire from the garage and in order to save the house it was necessary to demolish about one-quarter of the structure, which is of frame construction, two stories high.

Chief Leverich said that the firemen also played a stream from a garden hose on the flames, but the pressure was very low. As fast as the siding was torn off, the house the blazing material was hauled away and chemicals poured on the flames which were finally extinguished about noon.

The house is owned by the Montross Cemetery Association and leased to the Twaalfskill Club.

Chief Leverich said that the Delco system of lighting as used in the garage and the fire had been caused by defective wiring. The garage adjoins one end of the house and was burned to the ground.

Ulster Dairymen To Meet Saturday

County-wide Meeting Called for New Paltz Saturday Night to Discuss Important Matters and Elect Delegates.

Notice has been received of a county-wide meeting of all dairymen in Ulster county to be held at the Grange Hall in New Paltz on Saturday night, October 23, at 8 o'clock. This meeting is called immediately preceding a state-wide meeting to be held at Utica on October 27, at which dairymen will assemble from all corners of the New York milk shed to give consideration to a plan for uniting all dairymen sending milk or milk products to the Metropolitan markets.

At the meeting in New Paltz on Saturday delegates to the Utica meeting will be elected by nomination from the floor and the unanimous vote of all present. Those attending the meeting will have an opportunity of speech from the floor and a chance to advise and instruct the delegates elected as to the procedure they shall follow at Utica.

The movement to unite all dairymen has been under way for many years. It received great impetus at a dairymen's mass meeting in Utica last March at which a committee of eleven representing the five large milk marketing organizations was created. This committee held two subsequent meetings at Albany failing to agree on a plan of procedure. The second mass meeting called for Utica on the 27th will again bring together representative dairymen who will again take up the trail leading to an ultimate solution.

While the principal purpose of the meeting on Saturday at New Paltz is to elect and instruct delegates to the Utica meeting, a big feature of the evening will be a talk by Professor V. B. Hart of Cornell on the subject, "Farm Prices." Since this is a meeting of interest to all dairymen in Ulster county, regardless of their present milk marketing arrangements, a representative attendance is anticipated.

GIRL HAD FOOT SLIGHTLY INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

David Rogers of No. 33 East Union street reported to the police this morning that his car was in collision with a Ford truck at the intersection of Pine and Franklin streets and that Ruth Lurie of 72 North Front street, a high school girl, who was riding with him, had her foot slightly hurt. There was also some damage to the car.

Legion and Auxiliary Meeting.

Kingston Post, 154, American Legion, and the Legion Auxiliary will hold their regular meeting tonight in the Legion Memorial Building. Dancing will be in order after the meeting and refreshments will be served.

Eight Dismissals By Grand Jury

October Grand Jury Also Hands Up Ten Indictments, All of Which Are Sealed—No Open Indictments.

The grand jury in attendance at the October term of the Supreme court handed up its report Thursday afternoon. Judge Haabrouck after thanking the members of the body for their services excused the members from further service. Foreman Henry Hirsch reported no open indictments, 10 sealed indictments and eight dismissals.

The sealed indictments were transferred to the county court for action.

The eight dismissals were: John Wolf, Jr., charged with grand larceny, second degree, alleged to have been committed in the town of Esopus.

John Higgins, charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, in the city of Kingston. Dismissed as the grand jury has no jurisdiction in this matter by reason of chapter 720 of the laws of 1925, which withdrew jurisdiction from grand juries.

George Rymph, assault, second degree, alleged to have been committed in the town of New Paltz.

Lewis H. Weed, assault, second degree, alleged to have been committed in the town of New Paltz.

Lawrence Addis, threatening to commit a crime in the town of Rochester.

Everett Quick, operating a motor vehicle in the town of Marlborough while intoxicated. Jurisdiction withdrawn.

William Mohukey, assault, second degree, alleged to have been committed in the town of Wawarsing.

John Dawak, receiving stolen goods alleged to have been committed in the city of Kingston.

In all of the cases where no bill of indictment was found bail was ordered cancelled. None of these cases was what is known as a jail case.

Doctor Loses Suit Against Railroad

But Jury Awards Him $1,850 Verdict Against Man Who Was Driving Car in Which He Was Traveling as Guest When Injured.

A verdict for plaintiff, Dr. Max A. Zipser of New York city, was returned late Thursday afternoon in his $50,000 negligence action brought against the Ulster & Delaware Railroad and William Guttenberg, defendants. The jury found a verdict in the sum of $1,850 for plaintiff against the defendant William Guttenberg, driver of the car, and found no cause of action against the railroad.

Dr. Zipser was a guest of William Guttenberg on a trip to Hunter. On the way home the car was struck by a U. & D. train at the Phoenixia crossing and Dr. Zipser claimed damages for injuries. He contended that since the accident he was permanently injured and unable to continue his profession as a surgeon and that thereby his earning ability has been reduced. He still practices medicine but cannot operate, he says.

William Guttenberg contended that the crossing was not properly guarded and that the railroad was to blame for the accident and that he was free from negligence.

H. H. Flemming appeared for the railroad and C. F. Palmer Williams was attorney of record for the plaintiff. John H. Scully appeared for William Guttenberg.

Radio Address By Queen Marie

New York, Oct. 22 (AP).—Queen Marie will talk to the American people by radio tonight through a chain of 21 stations east of the Rocky mountains. Among them are WGY, Schenectady, and WGR, Buffalo.

The royal visitor will be on the air from 8:30 to 9 p. m., delivering what probably will be her only radio address while in the United States. She will speak before a microphone at Aeolian Hall.

The royal party is due a half hour earlier at the Commodore Hotel for a banquet in the queen's honor by the Iron and Steel Board of Trade. Afterward she is to go to supper at the Fifth avenue home of Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation.

200 CHILDREN TREATED AT SAUGERTIES CLINIC

The second of a series of three diphtheria clinics was held at the municipal building in Saugerties on Thursday and 270 children were inoculated by Dr. John C. Kamp, assisted by Dr. Hugh Chisenter and Miss Cassidy, the health nurse. There were many present at the clinic who did not attend the first one that was held. No pain is felt when the toxin anti-toxin is administered and no trouble was had in inoculating the children.

Lake Katara Grange Banquet.

Members of the Lake Katara Grange will hold a dance at Grange Hall next Tuesday evening. Newcomers will be furnished by Zeta's orchestra.

Over 650 Persons Reported Killed In Havana Storm

Latest Reports Indicate That 6,500 Were Rendered Homeless on the Island—Towns on the South Coast Were Hard Hit.

Havana, Oct. 22 (AP).—Latest reports reaching Havana indicate that more than 650 persons perished at various places in the provinces of Havana, Matanzas, Santa Clara and Pinar Del Rio in the hurricane which struck the island Wednesday morning.

It is said that ten municipalities were wiped out and that 6,500 persons were rendered homeless. It is thought the material damage will reach nearly $100,000,000.

In Havana alone it is estimated that 200 persons were killed and 1,600 injured and that 3,200 homes were destroyed. The two villages comprising the municipality of Tabatabano, on the south coast of the island, reported more than 300 dead, and both towns destroyed. They were the first upon which the hurricane fell with all its fury as it came out of the Caribbean Sea crossed the Isle of Pines and hit the island of Cuba.

Bejuco, lying midway between Havana and Tabatabano, is said to have had 30 fatalities.

Few reports have been received from parts of the provinces of Matanzas, Santa Clara and Pinar Del Rio, over which the storm passed.

Frantic Appeals For Aid.

The survivors in various districts, many of them seriously injured, are said to be without food, medicine or water, and frantic appeals are coming in for aid. By order of President Machado two relief committees have been formed. Nearly $100,000 already have been subscribed to aid the distressed people. Government and private trucks and automobiles have been put into service in efforts to reach interior towns and villages in the storm area. In Havana city all the homeless have been given food and shelter.

Fifteen bodies have been taken out of Havana harbor, bringing the total number of known drowned to 19. Officials believe that 50 or more persons possibly met death in the harbor.

Ulster Has 231 Absentee Voters

The Ulster county board of elections have received 231 accepted applications from absentee voters for ballots, all of which have been forwarded. The last day and time to receive them on return by the board of elections is 12 o'clock noon, October 29. The absentee voters farthest away are in California, there being two, and their ballots were sent by airplane mail in order that they may reach the applicants in time to return them in time.

Murderer Helps Find His Victims

Bodies of Two State Game Wardens, Slain by Suspected Poacher, Taken From Marquette Harbor of Lake Superior, Following Confession.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 22 (AP).—Marquette Harbor of Lake Superior today yielded the bodies of Arvid Erickson and Emil Skoglund, state game wardens, who Roy Nunn, ex-convict, and suspected poacher, last night confessed slaying when the men attempted to arrest him on September 29.

Nunn was taken to the harbor on the fringe of the Michigan woods and pointed out the spot where he confessed throwing the bodies, after placing them in sacks which were weighted down with stones.

The slaying, according to Nunn's confession, police said, resulted when the wardens attempted to arrest him at Sands Plains, near here, for unlawful possession of a gun, a technical charge on which it is believed they intended to hold him while investigating reports that he had been "headlighting" deer in the district. The officers had received numerous reports that deer were being killed by this method, which consists of throwing a strong spot light into the woods at night.

Attracted to the light the deer fall easy prey to hunters. Nunn, according to police, said he shot Erickson while the latter was questioning him. Skoglund was killed when he ran to the assistance of his partner.

Community Sale Is Big Success; Concert Tonight

Another band concert will mark the second day of the big downtown Community Sale this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The band is the same that gave such a successful concert Thursday evening, and the concert will be held from the band stand that has been erected in front of The Freeman building, Broadway and Strand.

The success with which the big Community Sale is meeting led the Downtown Business Men's Association to decide to hold another concert. The concert Thursday evening brought out a record breaking crowd and all of the stores participating in the sale did a record business.

The stores will be open again this evening and also Saturday and Sunday evening when the sale will officially close.

Streets and Stores Crowded.

The thoroughfares of the downtown business section were crowded Thursday evening with people who came from far and near to enjoy the band concert made possible through the courtesy of the Downtown Business Men's Association. But the music was not the sole attraction for the crowd, and the other attractions were shown by the goodly number who had bundles securely placed in their arms.

The stores evidently carried out the statements made in their advertisements and offered the bargains promised. Many of the stores were entirely out of some of the articles they advertised when the evening shoppers arrived, for the purchasers who visited the stores in the afternoon took advantage of the bargains. Many business places had to order more goods for the remaining days of the sale.

The stores presented a delightful spectacle with their artistically decorated windows that displayed the wares sold in the places of business. The lighting methods used by the business men were also advantageous not only to make the stores look more business-like but in illuminating the streets upon which the crowds passed.

The merchants are busy today replenishing their shelves and counters and waiting on the customers who could not find time to shop Thursday or who are returning to purchase more of the wares that they so satisfactorily purchased on the first day of the sale.

The stores will again be ready to cater to the numerous shoppers who will visit the downtown business section this evening and all day Saturday.

BRIMER FINED $25 FOR CAUSING ACCIDENT

An accident which caused two cars to run down an embankment occurred on the state highway near Phoenixia Wednesday. Both of the autos were complete wrecks and the occupants were badly bruised and received lacerations. The one car was occupied by Ray C. Ewers, an engineer employed by the New York board of water supply, and his wife and child. The other was being driven by Charles Brimer who was accompanied by three men. Brimer was charged with reckless driving and was fined $25 by Justice of the Peace Voss of Phoenixia.

SUPREME COURT TAKES RECESS UNTIL MONDAY

When the Supreme court adjourned Thursday afternoon at the conclusion of the Time-Winchell action, an adjournment was taken until Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Judge Haabrouck adjourned court over today of Supreme Court Alton Beach and Justice Joseph Justice Justice were held this afternoon from the late residence of 2 o'clock.

The jury in the Time-Winchell action will hand up a sealed verdict on Monday.

Halloween Party.

Catskill Woman Goes Big Bear.

Harold Conklin and wife of Catskill recently returned from a hunting trip to the Adirondacks where Mr. Conklin shot an eight-point buck deer weighing 200 pounds.

San Francisco, Oct. 22 (AP).—Two violent earthquakes rocked the central coast counties of California today an hour apart. The first shock was at 4:36 a. m. and lasted about twenty seconds. The second was at 5:36 a. m. and was much sharper but lasted only 15 seconds. No injuries and no serious damage had been reported from either.

The center of the shocks appeared to be between San Francisco and Monterey Bay. The tremblers were felt as far south as San Luis Obispo, 250 miles from San Francisco, and as far north as Napa, 50 miles from here. They were also felt at Stockton, ninety miles east and south.

Buildings Swayed Like Trees.

In San Francisco, Oakland and San Jose, the largest cities affected, large buildings swayed like trees driving people into the streets and parks for safety. Hotel guests were shaken from their slumbers and those who did not rush to the streets gathered in the lobbies.

Other cities reporting the tremblers are:

Salinas, severe shock, no injuries or serious damage.

Santa Cruz, shocks swayed buildings and broke windows.

San Jose, rocked buildings and broke windows.

Oakland, both shocks violently shook buildings.

Stockton, shock not severe.

Palo Alto, shocks violent but no injuries and no serious damage reported.

Sacramento, shocks not felt at newspaper offices and if occurred not serious.

The quake appeared to move in a north-south direction, along the old fault which caused the trouble in the quake of 1906.

The quakes were not felt in Oregon and Washington. Fresno, Los Angeles and San Diego also escaped them.

At the Palace Hotel, one of the largest hostels in the city, plate glass windows were broken, plaster fell from ceilings and small cracks appeared in the lobby floor.

At the new Bulletin Building, where the Associated Press offices are located, clocks were stopped, molten type metal was shaken from the pots in the stereotyping room, and furniture juggled around.

Santa Barbara, which suffered in the 1925 quake, apparently did not feel today's tremblers.

Some Queer Pranks.

Oakland, Cal., Oct. 22 (AP).—The earthquakes which shook Oakland along with San Francisco this morning played some queer pranks.

In a department store, a wax model did a cross between the shimmy and the Charleston when the first shock came. The model plunged through a plate glass window and was decapitated. The damage to the model and window is estimated at $1,000.

The master clock in the city hall tower, which regulates other clocks in the city, was stopped at 4:37 when the first shock was felt.

The most violent shock felt in San Francisco previously occurred at 5 o'clock on the morning of April 18, 1906, when the city was laid in ruins mostly as a result of fires started by the quake.

In that disaster 452 lives were lost, 1,500 persons injured and 265,000 made homeless. The property loss was estimated at $350,000,000.

Pythian Sisters Card Party.

A card party will be held at Pythian Hall Wednesday evening, November 10, under the supervision of Mrs. Harford Shultz and Mrs. Fred Shultz for the benefit of A. W. Reynolds Temple, No. 22. Playing will be awarded and refreshments served. The public is invited.

Who spilled the milk?

LET'S get this milk business straight.

Ogden Mills tested the milk from 1373 New York State farms. All tests were well above standard requirements of Sanitary Code.

But, at the very same time, 80% of the samples of milk collected in New York City were below the standard. Skimmed. Bootlegged.

New York State farmers are producing good milk; but children in New York City are victims of the meanest form of graft.

Isn't it time for New York State dairymen to have a Governor who will see that they get a square deal?

$539.95 Profit From Exposition

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce feels that it can be justly proud of the results obtained from the recent Industrial Exposition. As is noted by the financial report submitted by Wilson C. Ingalls, treasurer, a substantial profit resulted. It is generally conceded by all the exhibitors that the results from the individual participation was very much in excess of the expense to which they were placed and they, one and all, agree that an Industrial Exposition such as Kingston has had in the past few years is productive of great good in bringing to the attention of the citizens of this community as well as those coming to Kingston from its outlying localities, the character of manufacturing and the merchandizing of this city. The following is the financial report:

A "NULLIFICATION" LAW

Has Mr. Cristman a single definite, constructive idea on any subject whatever aside from his opposition to what he terms "nullification"? If he has, he has been miraculously successful in concealing the fact. In his opinion anyone is a "nullifier" who would in any way modify the sacred Volstead Law except to make it stronger in theory and less enforceable in fact. Changing the Volstead Law to make it apply to liquors that are intoxicating in fact, instead of the arbitrary and ridiculous one-half of one per cent standard, is, according to Cristman, "nullification."

In this connection it is well to remember that the Volstead Law itself, while defining as an intoxicant any liquid made by those who know how to make it, for the purpose of sale, that contains more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol, permits any unskilled person to make for his own use and not for sale, fermented fruit juice containing any percentage of alcohol as long as it is not intoxicating in fact. The Volstead Law already permits a privileged and unskilled class to do that which those Mr. Cristman terms "nullifiers" are seeking to permit skilled commercial manufacturers to do. Therefore, according to the notions of Mr. Cristman, the Volstead Law itself is a "nullification."

ALL-AMERICA AIR TRIP.

A squadron of five American army planes will soon start on a cruise of more than 18,000 miles through Central and South America and the West Indies. "The purpose of the flight," as stated by Secretary Davis, "is to strengthen the amicable relations already existing among the American republics, to demonstrate the feasibility of aerial transportation and communication between these widely separated nations, and, finally, to subject the amphibian (flying) airplanes to a severe service test over both land and water."

No doubt the Latin-Americans will be much interested, and, like the rest of us, they still have much to learn about aviation. But transport by air is not a new venture among them. It appears that in at least one Latin-American country there is more passenger and freight transport than in the United States. Facts in this connection are stated by the New York Times as follows:

Colombia has enthusiastically taken up flying. In 1925 the Sociedad Colombo-Alemana made 827 flights covering 183,206 miles. Paid passengers carried numbered 1,134. Express matter was valued at $1,895,428. Bolivia has two air services. Brazil started a line last December and others are authorized. In Chile a contract has been let to carry the mails. Argentina has put on a number of services. Peru at the end of 1925 had a pioneer line, and an American carried 300 passengers during the year along the coast on his own hook. The only line Uruguay boasts is in the hands of aliens.

HAS HE A PARTY?

What is the party affiliation of Arthur Rice, candidate for sheriff of Ulster county? This question is being asked by many voters who have read the campaign cards on display throughout the county. From the cards the voters will never know, for the only statement on the card is the fact that Arthur Rice is "candidate for sheriff of Ulster county."

Is Mr. Rice attempting to masquerade as the only candidate for sheriff, as a Republican candidate or is he ashamed of his party affiliations?

The Panama Canal is a money-maker. It is reported that during the first half of September the tolls collected aggregated more than a million dollars, an average of $67,540 a day and of $1,562 a week. For the first eight and a half months of the year the total revenue ran considerably above seven million dollars, making annual collections about $24,000,000. Such returns should more than cover all the operating expenses and the interest on the bonds.

The story goes that Lewis Larnum, former auditor of the Chicago Board of Education, lost his memory as a result of overwork, disappeared and wandered to Texas, where after three years he was accidentally discovered by one of his sons. Such things have happened, but what is new and suggestive in this case is the fact that the unfortunate man accumulated $30,000 during his three years away from home. Ordinarily loss of memory does not lead to fortune.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)

REAL CAUSE OF BACKACHE.

A health writer recently, in speaking about the spine, tells us that millions of years ago we walked on all fours and it is because we have assumed the upright position that we have a weakness in the small of the back.

Now none of us can really gather the idea of millions of years, because three or four thousand seems a long ways back to us, but why are people now complaining more about weak back, lumbago, sciatica and forth, than perhaps ever before? It is just during the past thirty years or so that we have been hearing these complaints. The main reason is that when man was created he was supplied with a set of abdominal muscles, and a set of muscles in the small of the back, that were in counteract one another. In fact there is a muscle running up from junction of the hip bones in front, to the cartilages that hold the ribs to the breast bone, and also muscles running obliquely up from the hip bone to the last rib on either side. Practically the same thing occurs at the back, as there are muscles running up straight, and also obliquely to the last few ribs. The muscles behind hold man erect, bending him slightly backward, the muscles in front bend him forward.

Both sets of muscles are needed to hold him in the erect position. Remember these front and back muscles were meant to work, to hold the abdomen tight, to move the body in all directions upon the hips. By sufficient use of these muscles man can stand erect, can keep his organs in their proper positions, with no "pain in the back." But what does man do? I mean the majority of men. He sits at a desk all day, rides in a street car or automobile, and eats more food than is necessary.

What happens? Not only do these muscles become weak from lack of sufficient use but the abdomen actually pulls the spine forward, and makes the small of back curve even greater. This strain on these back muscles gives that "weak back" of which so many folks complain.

You and I know that man must walk erect now at any rate. Our work does not really require us to use these muscles in front and back of the body. Therefore it is up to us to do a little bending of the body. This can be done by means of games for younger folks, and by bending exercises for older people.

It means an erect carriage and freedom from backache.

DE LA VERGNE OPENS LAW OFFICE IN KINGSTON.

Charles De La Vergne, who has opened an office for the practice of the law in the Ulster County Savings Bank Building at 230 Wall street, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. DeLaVergne of 303 Clinton avenue, this city. Although he has been absent from Kingston for several years he spent his early life here where he was graduated from old Kingston Academy with the last class to be graduated from that institution. After being graduated from K. A. he entered Union College at Schenectady but his course there was interrupted by the war. He enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps in Canada and after training for some time was sent to England where he received a commission. He remained overseas for some time and at the close of the war returned home.

After the war he resumed his studies at Union College and in 1920 was graduated with the degree of B. S. He then entered Columbia Law School in New York city where he worked his way through law school, doing settlement work nights among the crowded tenement houses of the East side. He was graduated from Columbia in 1923 with the degree of LL. B., and after passing his bar examinations in October, 1923, went with the law firm of Bicham, Engler and Jones at 64 Wall street, New York city, where he took up the general practice of law and where he remained until his return to Kingston.

He is a brother of the late Captain Louis D. B. De La Vergne who recently died of injuries sustained in the war.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

Oct. 22, 1906.—Charles E. Hughes, Republican candidate for governor, addressed two mass meetings.

Pickpockets from New York city made good haul at Kingston Opera House stage at Republican mass meeting.

Oct. 22, 1916.—It was decided by downtown Protestant churches to hold a six weeks' evangelistic campaign in tabernacle to be erected on Delaware avenue, and the Rev. Luther K. Peacock was selected as the evangelist.

Wrote 3,000 Verses a Day

Lopez De Vega, the celebrated Spanish poet, novelist and playwright, was a most prolific writer. He composed 22,000,000 verses, or 3,000 verses for each day of his life, which extended from 1502 to 1550.

White House Innovations

Alfred Powers Filmore, wife of the thirteenth President of the United States, contributed considerably to the comfort of "first ladies" who followed her. It was she who, possessed of great refinement and gracious manners, installed the first bath and kitchen ranges in the White House. The range caused a bitter controversy, as the colored cook who had retained 30 years using an open fire, would have none of it. Mrs. Filmore taught her how to use the range.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WINTER FOOD

"The cold weather will soon be here," said Billy Bear and the other bears all growled and said:

"Ah, the nice cold weather. Our fur feels so warm. We feel so well. Ah, the nice cold weather."

"We are going to have some cold weather food, some winter food, too," said Billy Bear.

"Are we?" asked the other bears and growled softly.

"That's good."

"Yes," said Billy Bear, "and here comes the keeper now with the food I heard him talking about it. Now he is bringing it."

Along came the keeper and he brought with him some bread and fish and some nice boiled bones, for twice a week in the cold weather he gave the bears a good warm dish.

"They had bran and bread at all times," but oh, how they did like their meal of boiled bones.

"They ate it and growled their thanks to the keeper."

"All winter food is delicious," said Billy Bear.

"It's fine," growled the other bears. "Zoo life is all right, anyway," said Billy Bear.

"Yes," said the others, "and we feel much happier when it is cold."

"Bears are nice animals anyway," said Billy Bear. "We don't go for growl-ups in self defense. We're very different from our neighbors, the polar bears."

"Of course we're nice," said the other bears, feeling pleased with their meal and pleased with the keeper and pleased with themselves.

"There are always some bears who may not be nice, just as there are some people who aren't nice," said Billy. "But as a rule the brown bear is a good-natured creature."

And then they all took a nice winter nap, but not for long for they were in the zoo and didn't sleep for the winter as they would if they were out of the zoo.

"I had a glorious dream about boiled bones," said Billy Bear when he woke up.

"Oh, how nice winter food is," said Billy Bear once more, as he licked his paws to be sure he hadn't missed anything.

"But oh," he added, "it is so unfair when people will judge a great many animals by one of that kind they may have happened to know."

"I have heard people at the zoo saying: 'I don't like brown bears. My brother went hunting once and he shot a brown bear in the foot but didn't kill him and do you know that terrible bear tried to get him later.'"

"Well, what bear wouldn't feel he had been treated unfairly if he had been injured like that, and had suffered great pain by someone who wanted to boast of what he had done when hunting?"

"Or I have heard someone say: 'My father says you can't trust a bear. He caught a baby bear once and the mother went for him and he just escaped.'"

"Well, what mother wouldn't go for anyone who tried to make off with her baby?"

"Or they will speak of one cross animal they have known and think all others are the same."

"Maybe one creature has been a pet and has turned out to be treacherous and they won't trust any others of that kind after that."

"One person said she knew a hateful, mean, jealous monkey. So she judged all monkeys by that one."

"Let people go back on each other and others do not say that no person should be trusted."

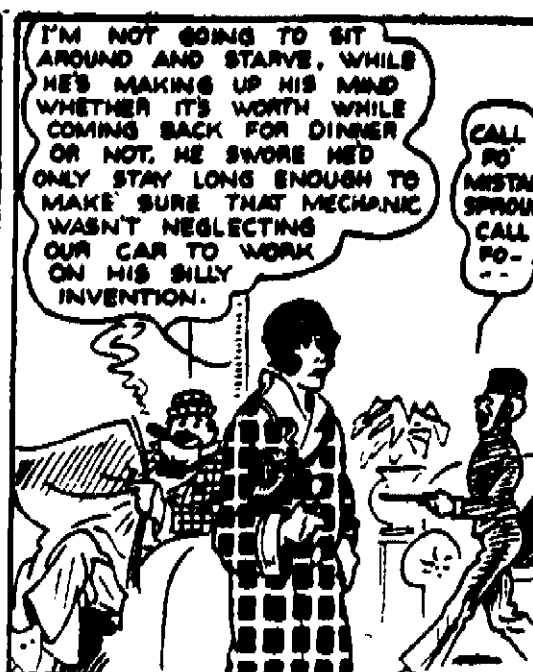

"People are cross and mean and unfair—but that isn't the way to judge all people just because a few are like that."

"No, they should be far more fair to animals than they are, and realize that it takes lots of different kinds to make up one family of animals just as it does with people."

The KITCHEN CABINET

(© 1926 Western Newspaper Union)

It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that many matters which agitate the public mind are not worth a thought in comparison with dietary to which a thought is seldom given.

FEEDING THE CHILD

Children cannot digest food that needs mastication before they have teeth. This is a trite remark but watch the streets and cars as you pass to and fro and see the stuff that is forced upon helpless children.

The fact that a child cries for, eats and seems to enjoy what is given it, seems to be the only reason some mothers use in feeding.

Solid food must wait for teeth. The digestive juices, like the teeth, are not ready for use in the little child, as milk, its natural food for nine months, fulfills every need.

As the child grows, food is needed to build up its teeth and bones as well as the other organs, and this food must be supplied or poor teeth and ill-nourished bodies will result.

Orange juice, tomato juice strained, may be given young children after three months, between feedings. These juices supply vitamins which are necessary for growth and health.

Fats, except butter and cream, should not be given until after the coming of the second teeth.

Acid foods, pickles and vinegar in any form, fresh hot breads or woody vegetables uncooked should never be given to a small child.

The child needs variety and when this is not possible make the serving or dishes as different as possible.

Predigested foods are not good for the child; his digestive tract must have exercise to be healthy and normal.

Candy, if allowed at all, should be homemade and given after meals in small quantities—never before a meal.

Important points for every mother to bear in mind:

"Service and cooking of food control palatability."

"Selection and mastication determine nutrition."

"Bad habits cripple life as do weak bones the body."

As water makes up a large proportion of the body it is necessary that young and old have plenty of water daily.

Use of Rifle Dates

From Border Warfare

The use of the rifle in America has been general since the war of 1754-63, known to us as the French and Indian war, in which Braddock was defeated.

From what I can learn, the flint-lock rifle, as we generally understand the weapon, dates from about the beginning of the eighteenth century. My reasons for believing this are the statements that Captain Dillon has a good specimen with a date of 1718. If I recall correctly, stamped in the metal of the barrel. The photo of this rifle shows it to have been the conventional long-barreled, short-stocked, single-triggered model made and used so widely in the border wars and the Revolution.

I have read in very old books that King Philip, the Indian chieftain of New England, in his great war with the Colonists in 1675 or some such date, had a rifled weapon. It may have been true, but I believe the rifle dates to the early part of the eighteenth century so far as general use is concerned. I believe the first makers were the German settlers of Pennsylvania.—Mr. Wiggles, in Adventure Magazine.

JUDGE FOWLER WILL ADDRESS NO. 6 P. T. A.

There were about fifty members of the P. T. A. of No. 6 School present at the October meeting held Tuesday afternoon. Great interest was manifested in the membership drive.

The committee reported that 180 calls had been made and 95 per cent had promised to become members of the P. T. A. The committee is divided into two teams and the team securing the smallest number of new members is to entertain the winning team.

It was with a great deal of enthusiasm and deep interest that the president Mrs. Swanson, gave her report of the lectures, entertainments and round table discussions she had heard at the late convention held in New York city. She stated that the November meeting of the P. T. A. of No. 6 School would be held in the evening in order that the fathers might attend. A lecture is to be given at that time by Judge Fowler on "The Juvenile Court", also a round table discussion on "Should the Child Have an Allowance?"

An invitation was extended to the association to attend Dr. Croft's lecture at the high school Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock on "Health Hygiene."

The mothers' attendance banners were won by the first and eighth grades respectively.

Wicks, Candidate For State Senate

Republican Nominee Active In Civic, Business and Fraternal Organizations In This City and Vicinity—Has Had Successful Business Career.
The Republican candidate for state senator in this district is Arthur H. Wicks, one of the younger business men of Kingston, who is widely and favorably known. Mr. Wicks is a native of New York city, where he was born December 24, 1887. Ten years later, his parents moved on a farm in the town of Olive, Ulster county, where they resided for three years, then returning to New York.
Mr. Wicks was educated in the public schools of Olive and New York city and after leaving high school entered the employ of his uncle, a manufacturer of pianos, with the intention of learning that business. Indoor work did not agree with his health and he obtained work with the New York Board of Water Supply. After six months at Valhalla he was transferred to the reservoir department and for eleven years continued in the engineering department of the New York city water supply. During this period he took up a course of special study in engineering, which resulted in his being appointed an engineer in the construction of the Steinway tunnel under the East River from 59th street to Long Island City. After working for seven months, much of the time under air pressure in the tunnel, Mr. Wicks found that his health was being impaired and resigned.
Being familiar with Ulster county from his residence here in boyhood, Mr. Wicks had spent his holidays here and naturally his thoughts turned to Kingston when seeking a business to enter. He purchased Thomson's Laundry in 1915 and has owned and operated it ever since. The volume of business done in the laundry has increased under his ownership and management more than tenfold and Mr. Wicks has refused offers to sell at a price more than ten times the price he paid for the property.
During his residence in Kingston Mr. Wicks has been actively interested in public affairs. He is at present vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, a director in the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation, which owns the Governor Clinton Hotel, a member and former director of the Kingston Rotary Club, a member of all the Masonic bodies in Kingston with the exception of the Shrine, a member of the Kingston Club, the Twaitskill Club, the Rondout Yacht Club, the J. O. U. A. M. the Hudson Valley Laundry Owners Association, the Laundry Owners National Association and the Fair Street Reformed Church, of the constituency of which he was for six years a member.

An Independent Judiciary

Criticism of the Democratic organization in Ulster County for its failure to endorse Judge Hasbrouck for re-election to the office of Justice of the Supreme Court seems to have been the principal tenor of his speech accepting his nomination.

He then said: "But where a Judge has devoted himself for the long term of fourteen years to the service the question arises as to whether he should be called upon to re-enter the political arena in order to hold fast to his livelihood and his office."

The question of livelihood is not involved in this campaign, nor does the office of Supreme Court Justice fall to any individual as a matter of right.

In the matter of endorsements for this high office, there does not appear to have been any endorsements of Democratic candidates for more than a generation past. In this, the Third Judicial District of the State of New York, comprising the counties of Albany, Rensselaer, Columbia, Greene, Schoharie, Sullivan and Ulster, there are seven Supreme Court Justices and all of them are Republicans.

It is a well known fact that long before the expiration of the term of Justice James A. Betts, the last Democratic Supreme Court Justice elected in this district, Justice Hasbrouck was engaged in a bitter contest to obtain the Republican nomination to the office of Justice of the Supreme Court.

In 1925, Judge James V. Coffey had been appointed Justice of the Supreme Court and had served as such in various counties in this district and had given unusual evidence of his high qualifications to fill that position. He was unanimously re-nominated in the fall of that year, by the Democratic party. And, although he had the almost unanimous endorsement of the lawyers of Rensselaer county, where he resided, the Republican organization refused such endorsement and nominated a candidate against him.

Judge Hasbrouck in his address also said: "The Supreme Court is the greatest of the state courts. Its power comprehends the lives, liberty and property of the citizens. Under a conviction for murder in the first degree, life must be declared forfeit; under a conviction of felony the citizen can be deprived of his liberty. By its decree the citizen can be divested of his goods, chattels or lands."

If the judiciary is to be kept out of politics, why limit its application to the Supreme Court? Is not the County Court a very important part of the judicial system of this state? It has jurisdiction to inflict the death penalty, to sentence a felon to state prison, and by its decree to divest the citizen of his "goods, chattels or lands."

Judge James Jenkins was County Judge of Ulster county from 1912 to 1918. He had been elected on the Democratic ticket and had given efficient and capable service and earned the reputation of being an able, honest and competent judge. Upon the expiration of his term no endorsement by the Republican organization of Ulster county was tendered Judge Jenkins, but, on the contrary, a Republican candidate was nominated against him.

If there has been any departure from the practice of endorsing judges in this county, Judge Hasbrouck can find the answer to his question in the case of Judge Jenkins above cited.

A non-partisan judiciary is one of the fundamental ideas of our judicial system and, as originally instituted, intended to include representatives of both of the great parties.

That is true to this day in the United States Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals of this state, but in the Third Judicial District all of the Supreme Court Justices are Republicans. The large population of this district is almost equally divided between Republicans and Democrats as shown by the vote at the last judicial election, and the Democratic party should be entitled to at least one representative in the judiciary of this district.

In his speech accepting the nomination, Judge Hasbrouck said: "Is the Justiceship to be made the football of politics?"

Is leaving with the people of this judicial district the choice of a Justice of the Supreme Court in accordance with the expressed provision of the Constitution of this state, making this exalted office "the football of politics?"

The delegates to the Democratic Judicial Convention were elected by the people to nominate a Justice of the Supreme Court. These delegates met in convention and unanimously handed back to the people of the district the name of Judge Van Etten for such office. This was done by the delegates in convention and not by the Democratic organization of Ulster county or any other county in this district.

There was little need of amending the Constitution and limiting the term of office of Justices of the Supreme Court, if once a Justice is elected he must be endorsed by both parties and continued in office until he resigns, reaches the age limit or dies.

MY HARDEST DAY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

O. H. THIS has been my hardest day, Or so it seems. For I have had to put away So many dreams. Yes, I have had to tell so long. I cannot help somehow but say. That this has been my hardest day.

More folks have said more things unkind. Or so I thought. And faith I did not seem to find For which I sought. Yes, love has turned its face aside. I even thought that love had died: I cannot help but somehow call This day the hardest day of all.

But here I am, the day is done. And—well, what now? Sweet night will hide the clouded sun. And so, somehow, I'll let it hide the wounds, the stings. The little hurts of little things— Whatever other folks may do. The hardest day is always through.

And so tomorrow I may start Another day. I shall not leave upon my heart, Like lead to lay. The burdens of a day like this. The dawn will greet me with its kiss. And it shall find, yes, dawn or not, My hardest day a day forgot.

As Told by Irvin S. Cobb

ISAAC WALTON IN BLACK

CAPTAIN GEORGE WALKER of Savannah used to have a hand on his Georgia plantation who loved ease and fishing. When he wasn't fishing he was loafing.

One night there was a rain almost heavy enough to be called a cloudburst and the next morning all the low places on the plantation were flooded two feet deep. Passing his tenant's cabin, Captain Walker found him seated in an easy chair at the kitchen door sitting in a small puddle of muddy water that had formed there.

"Henry, you old fool," said Captain Walker, "what are you doing there?"

"Boss," said Henry, "I's jes' fishin' a little."

"Well, don't you know there are no fish there?" demanded Captain Walker.

"Yes, sah," said Henry, "I knows dat. But de place is so handy."

Hi-Y Club in Lively Session

The Hi-Y club held their first meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening, which was attended by twenty-nine of the old members. A splendid supper was served by the ladies and the girls of the Hi-Y Auxiliary.

President Emerson Davis presided. Secretary John Watts gave a report of the meeting of the officers of the club, and outlined some of the activities and needs which the officers voted should be looked into, during the coming season. After much discussion it was voted to continue the meetings on the weekly basis, and at the same cost.

Mr. Hall, Secretary of the boys' division, was speaker of the evening, and chose as his subject, "Not Disobedient to the Heavenly Vision," stressing the opportunity of the Hi-Y club to promote more vigorously its purpose of "Creating, Maintaining and Extending High Standards of Christian Character," throughout the school and community.

The meeting closed with a prayer by Ernest Pelen, the faculty adviser. President Davis appointed the following committees:

Lucas Boeve, chairman of the speakers committee.
LeRoy Webber, chairman of the social committee.
Russell Edwards, chairman of the athletic committee.

Harry LeFavre, chairman of the membership committee.
James Fowler, chairman of the entertainment committee.
The chairman of the committee and the officers met in a session after the regular meeting and voted to recommend to the club that all of the alumni who were members of the Hi-Y formerly will be welcome at any club meeting where they notify the secretary that they will be present, as do the regular members. There will be a social and game period, and possibly movies for the boys of the Boys' Division between the ages of 12 and 14 on Friday night at 7:30. Many of the boys have been making special inquiry regarding the emblem which is posted on the bulletin board, and announcements will be made concerning how this emblem may be won.

The emblem is a blue K entwined in a red triangle, superimposed on a yellow background, inclosed in a purple circle.

The boys' gym classes are well under way and an extra large attendance is the standard of each period. Each week brings its addition of new members into the Division and the rooms have never been more active than they are at the present time.

GOOD RULES FOR SUMMER TOURIST*Observance Will Aid in Avoiding Road Trouble.

Now that the summer touring season is here and the highways and byways are overrun with vacationists, tourists and others going nowhere in particular and in a big hurry to get there, let us take "count of stock" and see what we, who also expect to be on the road may do to insure our emergence from this season, still sound of mind and limb and without having accidents. Here are a few suggestions in the interests of safety.

1. Be sure that your lights are adjusted properly at the start and test them frequently to see that they remain in adjustment.

2. Be sure that your brakes are properly adjusted and test them to see if you can stop the car in the required distance for a given speed.

3. When about to execute any movement that can possibly affect the manipulation of another car make the proper signal in a decided and distinct manner. Do this even though you don't see the other car and do not know that there is one in the immediate vicinity.

How to Use Horn.

4. "Spare the horn." In dense traffic. Be prodigal in your use of the horn on mountain roads, particularly when approaching a curve where the view is obstructed. Always sound horn when about to pass a car going in the same direction. Remember that one of the "Calls of the Open Road" is the sound of the horn when used properly.

5. Do not burn-up your brake linings on steep grades—you may have use for them later. Use the motor to brake the car on grades. A good thumb rule is to descend a hill in the same gear you would use in ascending it and never descend a hill with the gears in neutral.

6. In loading your camping paraphernalia, be sure that the load does not extend beyond the hub cap on the left nor more than six inches beyond the hub cap on the right.

7. In passing through streams or other bodies of water do not dash in in high gear. Go into low gear before entering the water and remain so until dry land has been reached.

Share With Others.

8. Do not hog the road. If a person who is in a bigger hurry than you are should come up behind you, assist him in passing, then neither you nor he will be worried.

9. Do not try to beat any railroad trains to crossings. No automobile has yet tried to oppose a train without coming off second best.

10. Always be sure your campfire is absolutely out before leaving it. Also, be sure your cigarette, cigar, pipe ashes and matches are dead before they are thrown away. Carry in the car a small box or can of earth for extinguishing purposes. Oftentimes a tiny spark which gives no evidence of life in the cool morning will burst into flame in the noonday heat and cause immense property damage and possible loss of life.

Shellac Coating Useful to Protect Auto Bolts

A thin coating of shellac is an effective anti-rust protection for bolts and nuts. The substance will also prevent a nut from turning and will reduce the annoyance of loose and rattling parts. Both nut and bolt should be dipped in this shellac. After being put in place with the nut tightened, the bolt should have a little additional shellac applied to its rod. This treatment will not only prevent rusting, but will allow the nut to be taken off more easily. As a general rule, it is very hard to rustproof small parts. Sometimes they are coated with grease or graphite, but this soon wears off and the rust continues to accumulate. Some forms of paint are frequently used, but these, too, are not permanent protection. The shellac coating is expected to overcome this.

Definition

Optimism is the ability to speak of "my car" in the face of a charged mortgage, six payments still to be made, a bill at the garage, and state and city license tags due just around the corner.—Artemus Gaudin.

Stolen Car Toots

When Sheriff Smith of Salinas, Kan., enters his motor car there is no unusual alarm, but when a stranger enters it the horn begins sounding and toots a second.

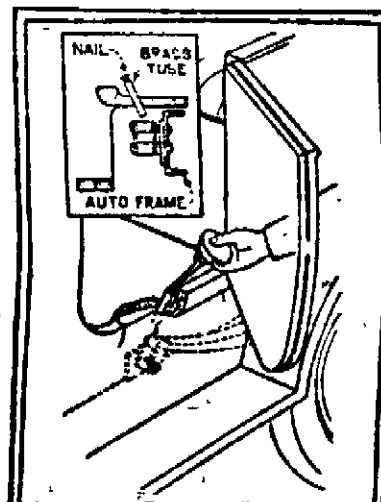

A man whose car was parked beside the sheriff's attempted to back out and his fender rubbed the official's car. At once the horn began sounding the alarm. The sheriff rushed out to the curb from a store, expecting to pick up a car thief.

"What's the matter with that car?" asked the man in the car trying to back out.

"Nothing at all, except that it is calling me," answered the sheriff.

Easy Means Provided for Oiling the Rear Springs

By drilling a 1/4-inch hole through the floorboards on either side of his car at the point indicated in the drawing, an automobile owner provided an easy means of oiling the rear springs. He found, however, that dirt soon clogged the holes, causing the oil to seep along the underside of the floor and over the outside of the apron, which accumulated dust and presented a dirty appearance. This trouble he remedied by inserting a short length of brass tubing, flared out at the top in each hole. The tube extended about 1/2 inch below the running board shield and was bent to come directly above the spring shackles. Short nails were used to plug the holes between oilings.—R. C. Farr, Gloucester, Mass., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Tire Resiliency Much
Increased by Invention

A Hungarian inventor has perfected a new method of attaining a 400 per cent increase of resiliency in pneumatic tires without changing diameter, cross section, shape, form or general appearance. An extra cushioning effect is attained by using a double disk wheel and by converting the entire hollow space between the two walls into an airtight compartment which holds air under pressure as permanently as service as that accomplished by the inner tube of the tire. Communication between the tire and the air chamber in the wheel makes the latter virtually an extension of the former to point of cushioning effect.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES

Keep your automobile license tags clean.

The quickest automobile turnovers occur at the grade crossings.

For every 35 telephones in the United States there are 100 motor cars.

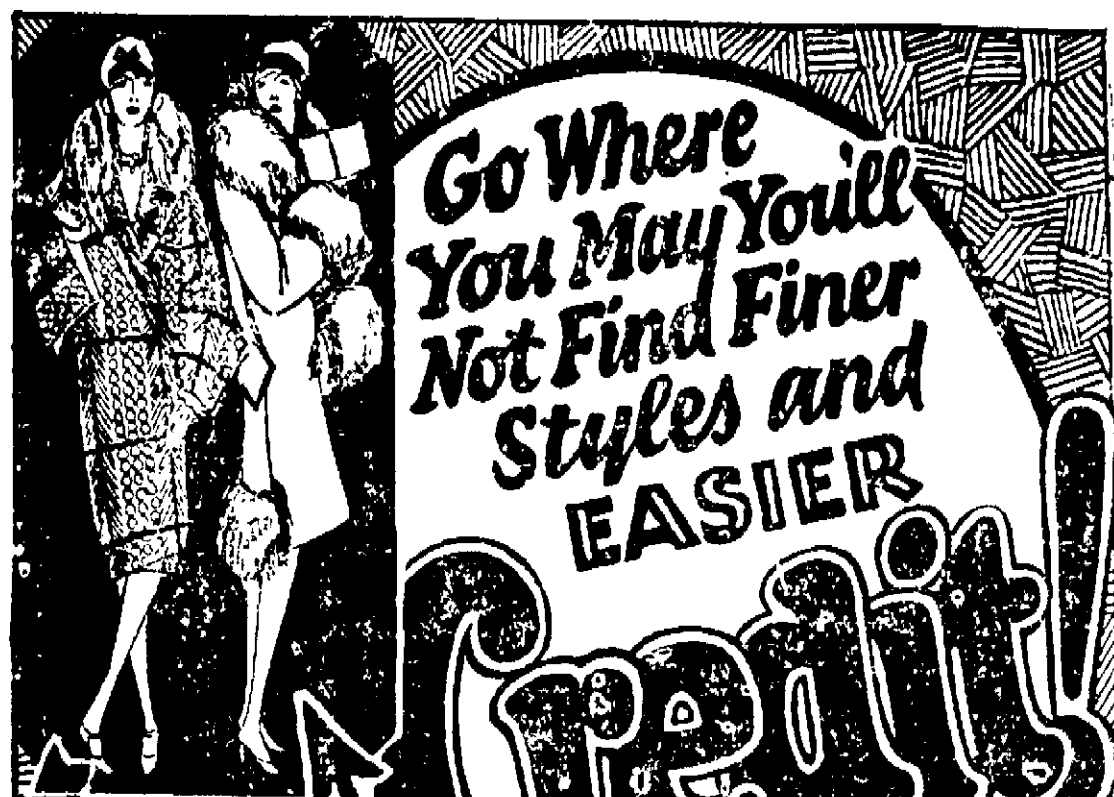

No matter how popular swimming may be, it is best for an automobile not to swim.

After the collision (old story): "Why the deuce don't you buy a bell for your bicycle?"

Evidently the speaker can't say that he was testing his car, and expect to get away with it.

Venice's Council of Ten

The sacred republic of Venice was ruled for nearly 300 years by the Council of Ten, a secret tribunal which was instituted in 1310 and continued in power until the republic's fall in 1797.

MILTON.

Milton, Oct. 21.—A meeting will be held Sunday evening, October 21, at the Methodist Church, when the Rev. A. MacWilliams will give an address on "Good Citizenship."

On account of the Rev. A. MacWilliams being unable to be here next Sunday, the Rev. Mr. McCready of New York will have charge of the services at the Presbyterian Church.

The display of fruit, vegetables and canned fruit at the Harvest Home Festival service in the Presbyterian Church last Sunday morning was beautiful. All of these donations were sent to the Industrial Home at Kingston this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wood of Brooklyn were recent visitors at the home of Frank C. Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wetton of Holts, L. I., were at their summer home on Sands avenue during the past week.

Mrs. Ralph Greenlaw of Englewood, N. J., and Mrs. George Richards of Chatham, N. J., were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Clifford Hallock.

Fred H. Smith is on a two weeks' vacation at the home of his son and daughter at West Neck, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Caverly of Berlin, N. Y. have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Cornelia Carvill.

Mrs. Sarah Woodley is visiting her sister at Uxville, N. J.

William Sturgeon will leave this week for Miami, Fla., where he will spend the winter.

As Gamblers See It

Felix Jeanin tells an amusing story of the psychology of gamblers. Two men went to a gambling house and played for some hours. When they left, one boasted the other: "Well, didn't you do as I told you? You wouldn't have lost." "But," said the other, "you lost just as much as I did." "Yes, I did, but mine lasted longer than yours."—The Outlook.

SKIN TROUBLE COVERS BODY

At last finds treatment which cleared it away in few days

Badger, Minn., March 1:—"A while ago I was troubled with a skin disease, a mild case of itch, which was very distressing. It began on my leg and was most aggravating; the more I scratched it, the more it itched. Finally a number of tiny pimples formed and soon spread all over my body. It became so bad that I did not know what to do about it and was going to consult a physician when a friend of mine suggested that I try Resinol Ointment. I bought a jar the next day and was delighted with the relief I obtained after the first application. A few more treatments and the itch was entirely gone. I have also used Resinol Soap and Ointment for blackheads and pimples and it helped wonderfully. I cannot praise Resinol enough for all the good it has done me." (Signed) Celia Stoffel, Star Route.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified crocodile that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, crocodiles are recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to crocodile, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the crocodile goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory disorders, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Get Those Extra Eggs!

Now is the time every extra egg means more cash! And right now is the time you can make your hens produce more eggs—better eggs—by feeding Ful-O-Pep Egg Mash. Young or old hens, it makes no difference, will lay right through the unfavorable season if you will feed this wonderful mash according to directions. Pullet eggs will be larger, more uniform in size with the eggs from old hens. All eggs will be larger, stronger-shelled—the kind that get the best prices. And if you will keep your hens on Ful-O-Pep Egg Mash they'll help you get the finest broods of chicks you've ever had, next Spring.

To Dedicate New Hall at Modena

Modena, Oct. 21.—Man's carefully laid plans, because of unexpected contingencies, often have to be revised and changed. When plans were being made for the formal opening of Hasbrouck Memorial Hall no one had the slightest idea that anything would occur to prevent the consummation of those plans. But suddenly, like a bolt out of the blue, an unforeseen condition arose making it imperative that there be an immediate postponement of the dedicatory exercises. Now, however, the reasons for the postponement having been removed, plans are under way to observe the dedicatory services on October 27, 28, and 29, according to the original program.

The dedicatory service will take place on Wednesday night, October 27, when a program of song, instrumental music, and speaking will be rendered. The Rev. J. J. Henry, district superintendent, will deliver the dedicatory address. Refreshments will be served.

On the second night, Thursday, October 28, a roast beef dinner will be served from 6 to 9 o'clock. The dinner will be held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Hasbrouck, the donors of Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Thus a splendid opportunity will be given the people of Modena and the surrounding country to show their appreciation of this magnificent gift in a substantial way. The proceeds will go for the repair of the church. The pie served at the supper will be made by the Girl Scouts.

On the last night a moving picture of popular interest will be shown.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend every one of these exercises.

Will: "You say he's a smart man?"

Bill: "Yes, instead of having a wrecking company to raze his old building, he hired a jazz band and held a Charleston dance on the premises."

"There's where the money goes," declared a Kingston man the other day, pointing to a hay rack load of old auto tires being hauled to the junk shop.

He was looking for a rich wife, and thought he had found what he required.

"I love you," he said, "more than I can tell in words."

"Try figures," she replied, coldly.

Those Dark Movies. Some people go To cheer and hiss; While others go To neck and kiss.

It was a wise flapper who knew where to be vaccinated back in the pigtail age.

"The fat's in the fire," chuckled the devil as he gaily tossed a heavy-weight into the flames.

Bird's-eye maple has just as much to do with birds as mahogany has to do with hogs.

"I think the Charleston is awful." "I can't learn it either."

"Your medicine helped me wonderfully," wrote a grateful woman to a patent medicine concern. "A month ago I was so weak I could not spank my baby, and now I am able to thrash my husband. Heaven bless you!"

Herman: "Do you shut your eyes before being kissed?" Gladys: No, but I keep my mouth shut after."

Try pulling, for a change. Any darned old mule can kick.

Who is the applause for motion pictures supposed to gratify? We don't know unless it is the pop corn vendor who hopes they will spill their corn and buy more.

Customer—"Have you any eggs that have no chickens in them?" Grocer—"Yes, Ma'am; duck eggs."

He (twice nicked by the razor): "Hey, barber, gimme a glass of water."

Barber: "Whassa matter, hair in yer mouth?"

He: "No, I wanna see if my neck leaks."

Edmund Keen

On the evening of January 28, 1924, a small figure appeared from the wings of Old Ivory in the guise of Shylock. He was an actor destined to perpetuate his name in theatrical history—Edmund Keen. He played "Shylock" on his first appearance in London after ten years away but profitable provincial experience, and his performance of a passionate but cultured Jew entranced his sophisticated audience.

Those who called at the home of Joseph Christian on Sunday afternoon to see his father, who is ill, were: Mr. and Mrs. Claude Christian and children, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Barley, Mrs. Jane Wood, Mrs. William Wood and Mr. and Mrs. J. H.

Barley and daughter, Mildred. Alida Osterhout called on her pupils in this place on Tuesday. Sherman Barley of Mohonk Lake spent Tuesday with his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Davis and daughter, Evelyn, were in Middle town Saturday.

The Rev. J. B. Stetson gave communion on October 18 and baptized Mildred, Howard and Eula Barley. Mildred Barley joined the church at the same service.

Mrs. Fred D. Oakley spent a few days with her daughter, who is ill with the grip, at Stone Ridge.

Church on Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. James Grant, Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Heidrich were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Burger for supper on Thursday evening.

A number of our local people attended the show at Ellenville Tuesday evening, which they said was very good.

Mrs. Keller Wood of Ellenville was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Theopha Kearney, on Thursday last.

Thomas Brady was a visitor at the home of his brother-in-law, Harrison Burger, over the week end.

Catholic Church Supper. Cottrell, Oct. 21.—The Cottrell Reformed Church will hold a hot chicken supper at the church on October 27 and a large attendance is expected to be present. The workers in charge of the supper announce they will be ready to serve any number of persons, no matter how large it may be. The menu will consist of: Chicken, hot beans, gravy, mashed potatoes, baked beans, colored cabbage, country corn, celery, pumpkins and apple pie and coffee. There will also be an address by an able speaker and everyone is urged to attend. The proceeds are for the church. The roads leading to the place of the supper are in good condition and there will be plenty of parking space at the church.

Locomotive's Breathing. The puffing of a railway engine is a common enough sound, but few people know by what it is regulated. Actually the number of puffs made by a locomotive in the course of a journey depends on the circumference of its driving wheels.

No matter what the speed of the train may be, the engine will give four puffs for every complete turn of the driving wheels. The wheels may vary in circumference, but the average is 39 feet.

With the average driving wheels and a speed of 60 miles an hour, a locomotive will give 200 puffs a minute, or 12,000 puffs an hour, the driving wheels performing 12,000 complete revolutions in the sixty minutes.

Letchworth Park A Place of Beauty

Has Added to Original Park Area and Made Many Improvements—Considered Second to None in Gorge and Waterfall Country.

Portageville, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP).—Letchworth Park, one of the many spots reserved for the people of New York state, is attracting an increasing stream of visitors as the work of improving its roads, walks and lookouts continues.

The park comprises nearly 1,000 acres of land extending for three miles along both banks of the Genesee river in the counties of Livingston and Wyoming. The preserve contains three falls, a picturesque gorge 600 feet deep, the largest arboretum east of the Mississippi, an Indian council house, picturesque cabins and a wealth of other natural and scenic attractions. Within a short time erection of a new dam in the Genesee river at the west of Mount Morris will give the park with a lake 16 miles long, bordered by cliffs and driven and available for fishing, boating and aquatic sports.

Improvement of the park is under the direction of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society in accordance with the will of the late Dr. William F. Fryer Letchworth, who donated a large part of the land to the state. Glen Iris, Dr. Letchworth's home, still stands in the park. Near it are a library and museum; the grave and monument of Mary Jemison, the "White Woman of the Genesee"; and a monument to the First New York Dragoons, recently moved to a new location at a main highway intersection from its original site east of the river.

Several notable changes in the park have been made since the state took it under control in 1907. At that time much of the area was given over to farms and pastures. Farming has been discontinued and part of the property has been converted to an arboretum, now containing 200,000 trees. The roads through the park have been widened, the steep grades reduced, guard rails and artistic stone retaining walls built and vistas cut through the woods to display the beauties of the gorge.

The stone library and museum building, built in 1912-13 by the society with funds left by Dr. Letchworth, contains a valuable collection of works relating to charities and ser-oral thousands specimens illustrating the arts and life of the North American Indians.

Not only is the original park area being improved, but land also is being added, part through purchase and the rest through gifts. The Mount Morris Waterpower Corporation, which will build the power dam near Mt. Morris, recently donated 271 acres of land on both sides of the river between the present park and the dam site. The corporation also has agreed to permit the public to use the lake to be formed and to furnish free electric power to the park for lighting purposes.

It is proposed also to construct a scenic highway along the west bank of the river and lake from the park to Mount Morris, with sufficient land under control to protect the views and eliminate the possibility of construction of undesirable structures. Trails, lookouts and rest stations will be built in this area, and vistas cut through the timberland in an effort to make accessible to the public a vast section of scenic beauty and land rich in Indian lore heretofore not easily reached.

In gorge and waterfall scenery, Letchworth park is considered second only to Niagara in the state and what it may lack in the magnitude of its cataracts and extent is made up in the charm of varied beauty. The people of the countryside long have loved the park, not only for its natural beauty, but also to them it expresses the spirit of Dr. Letchworth, who rescued it from the axe and the saw, restored it as a scenic attraction and then gave it to the people of the state for park purposes.

Copper Charter Now Granted. Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 22.—(Special).—A Delaware charter recently was granted to the copper exporting company, which was formed some time ago in a cooperative spirit to combat foreign speculative practices leading to unsettlement of price structure. As this cooperative movement contemplates the marketing of about 90 per cent of the world's copper supply—it is hoped that it will prove a boom to the industry.

The average price of 20 copper stocks during the past few months rose steadily from 27.9 in April to 32.3 in August. Many people expect to see even higher prices for copper stocks once the above exporting company really gets under way and barring any further backward movement of the general stock market.

MONTAGUE NORMAN

J.P. MORGAN

THOMAS W. LAMONT

FRITZ KREISLER

Montague Norman, English financier, was reported to have initiated a manifesto urging world free trade, which was signed by J. P. Morgan and leading bankers in Europe and America. Thomas W. Lamont, Morgan's partner, issued a statement urging France to pay its debts as the first step toward rehabilitation of Europe. Fritz Kreisler, noted violinist, narrowly escaped death when his auto crashed at Glasgow.

George Suiter For Sheriff

Republican Nominee Well Qualified
By Experience for Duties of Important Office to Which He Is Seeking Election.

GEORGE SUITER.

George Suiter of Marlborough, who is the Republican candidate for the office of sheriff, has been a resident of that village for the past forty-five years, and is one of the most progressive citizens of southern Ulster. He has served Ulster county for several terms as coroner, and his work has brought him in contact with the residents of the county.

Mr. Suiter was born at Canajoharie, Montgomery county, and removed to Marlborough forty-five years ago and has resided there ever since. For a number of years he has been engaged in fruit farming.

His acknowledged ability led to his being elected town collector of the town of Marlborough in November, 1905, and he served as such during the years 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1909. In the last mentioned year he was elected supervisor by a large majority, and served two years.

Mr. Suiter is a man of keen business ability and is thoroughly familiar with conditions in Ulster county. It was that reason that led to his being selected as the candidate for sheriff of the Republican party. He has always taken an active interest in politics and his ability has long been recognized. He has served as Republican county committeeman of his district and has also been the Republican town committeeman.

There are few men in Ulster county who are better fitted to fill the duties of sheriff in a manner that will prove acceptable to the county at large, irrespective of party affiliation, and Mr. Suiter can be depended upon, if elected, to fill the office worthily.

Socially Mr. Suiter is a member of the Elks, of Advance Lodge, No. 40, I. O. O. F., of Marlborough, in which he has held all the chairs; Mount Olive Encampment, No. 65, I. O. O. F., of Newburgh, of which he has been master of finance; Court Marlborough, No. 503, Foresters of America, of which order he has served as district deputy.

Mr. Suiter is carrying on a most active campaign in his own behalf, and is being assisted by his wide circle of friends who realize that in his election Ulster county will be represented by a sheriff who will be a credit to the office.

First Veneering

Veneering is the process of coating common wood with slices of rare and costly woods fastened down with glue by screw processes made to fit the surface to be covered. It was first used in the reign of William and Mary, in the last decade of the Seventeenth century. Until that time furniture had been made of solid wood.

WE RACKED our brains for a way to win every man that shaves to a trial of Palmolive Shaving Cream, regardless of expense to us. That's because 8 in every 10 men who once try this unique creation become regular users.

So come today. Get a SILVER-PLATED genuine Gillette Safety Razor, complete with blade, FREE with a full-size 35c tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream.

You've probably often wished for a genuine Gillette. Now accept one as a gift. No matter how many razors you have, you ought to have a Gillette.

All you need do is step into any store named below, put down 35c—the regular retail price of Palmolive Shaving Cream—and take away a tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream and the razor. No red tape. Nothing to sign.

But—don't delay. We've limited every dealer's stock. Don't blame him if you come too late. When his present supply is exhausted, we can't give him more. Every dealer is instructed to sell ONLY ONE to a customer.

A shaving cream that's changing the shaving habits of the world

Palmolive Shaving Cream is a scientific creation. We worked 18 months to perfect it; made up and discarded 130 formulas before we hit the right one.

We started by asking 1000 men what they most desired in a shaving soap. Then met their exactments one by one. It is different in formula, action and effect from any other shaving preparation known.

5 unique advantages over old-type soaps, creams, powders

In 5 distinct ways, this unique preparation excels over all others. You'll note them all first time you use it. It has won millions of men from old-time preparations. Its success is a national sensation. Men are literally flocking to its use.

- 1—It multiplies itself in lather 250 times.
- 2—It softens the beard in one minute.
- 3—The lather maintains its creamy fullness for ten minutes on the face.

- 4—The extra strong bubbles support the hairs for cutting, where weak bubbles let them fall down.
- 5—The blend of palm and olive oils brings fine after-effects. It makes the cream also a lotion.

Accept TODAY

Now to win you over to a trial, we make an offer which we believe is the most remarkable any manufacturer ever made to gain a fair trial for his product.

In your interest and in ours, please accept it today. Go now to one of these stores. You'll thank us for the gift to-day—and for many days—for the new shaving comforts our cream offers you.

TO WOMEN

These supremely fine razors, together with a large tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream, make excellent gifts for husbands and brothers—a complete shaving comfort.

Take advantage of this now. ONE to a customer only. Please do not ask for more. No dealer is allowed to give you over one on this special offer. Lasts only a few days, so come now.

Today's Story in New York History

By
Frederic A. Godcharles.

Americans Surprise British at St. Regis in First Land Victory in War of 1812, October 22, 1812.

An incident in the second war with Great Britain, which is of historical value to residents of New York, is that Lieutenant William L. Marcy, afterwards Governor of New York, had the honor of assisting in taking a corps of Canadian militia at St. Regis, N. Y., on October 22, 1812. These were the first prisoners taken on land in that war.

On each side of the boundary line between New York and Canada is the Indian village of St. Regis, at the mouth of the St. Regis river. In 1812 it was agreed between a British and an American commissioner, that the natives should remain neutral in the approaching crisis.

During the fall of 1812, Captain Montigny, with a small company of British troops, in violation of the previous agreement, arrived, and took post at St. Regis.

Major Gullford D. Young, of the Troy militia, stationed at French Mills (now Fort Covington) receiving an account of this British violation, resolved to surprise, and it possible to capture this party. He considered himself justified in entering upon neutral ground, as the enemy had first broken their agreement.

Accordingly, on October 1, 1812, Major Young proceeded quietly through the woods by an obscure path, guided by William Gray, an Indian interpreter; but on arriving opposite the village of St. Regis, he found it impossible to cross, and was compelled to return.

Having allowed the alarms which his attempt had excited to subside, Young resolved to make another descent, before the enemy should be reinforced, and for this purpose he marched from his post on the night of October 21 with two hundred men, crossed the St. Regis in a boat, a canoe, and on a hastily constructed raft, and arrived before dawn, within half a mile of St. Regis, without attracting the notice of the enemy.

Here the troops were rested and refreshed, and then afterward pushed forward. Major Young made such a judicious disposition of his men that the enemy were cut off and surrounded. The assault began on the block-house, when a sharp skirmish ensued, in which the British lost seven men killed, among whom was Captain Rothall, while not an American was hurt.

The battle had not long been waged

NEW BAPTIST PASTOR

APPEALS FOR FUNDS.

Dear Friends,

I have been able with the help of God to establish a Baptist Church in the downtown city of Kingston. For years the colored people of this city have been neglected in the Baptist religious training. I came to your city September 19. Since that time I have been successful in getting my people together. I have more than sixty bona fide members, and twelve of the same are to be baptized. I am now rallying for a church building, and have on a $1,000 drive. I am now appealing to the general public for help. I am sure you realize what a church means to any city. It makes better men and women and it helps the future growth of a city. I am satisfied that you out of your many blessings that you have received will share some of them with the Union Baptist Church.

Thanking you in advance for what I hope you will give, I am yours for service in the uplifting of humanity.

REV. G. H. KING, Pastor.

Address, 89 Newkirk avenue.

Great Work Unfinished

Raphael's "Transfiguration" hangs in the Vatican gallery in Rome. It was left unfinished, at Raphael's death, which occurred in 1520.

when the British surrendered themselves prisoners. The spoils of this victory were forty prisoners, exclusive of the commander and the Roman Catholic priest, with their arms and accoutrements, thirty-eight muskets, two batons, a flag, a quantity of baggage and 800 blankets.

The flag which waved over the block-house was captured by Lieutenant Marcy in person.

The Americans returned to French Mills by 11 o'clock of the morning of October 23, without the loss of a man, and the prisoners were sent forward to Plattsburg.

On Thursday, January 5, a detachment of the volunteer militia of Troy entered Albany, with the stand of British colors taken at St. Regis. This was the first stand of colors taken by Americans during the war. The newspaper account of this demonstration says that the detachment with two superb eagles in the center, and the British colors in the rear, paraded to the music of Yankee Doodle, through Market and State streets to the Capitol.

The building was everywhere crowded with spectators, and in the absence of Governor Tompkins, who was too ill to attend the exercises, his aide, Colonel Lamb and Colonel Lush, advanced from the council chamber to receive the standards. Upon which Major Young, in a truly military and gallant style, and with an appropriate address, presented them to the people of New York. Colonel Lush accepted them on the part of the state, when the standards were deposited in the council room, amid the loud huzzas of the citizens and military salutes.

Subsequent to this achievement Major Young was appointed a colonel in the United States army. He was an officer in the Mexican War, where he died heroically in defense of a fort, and his body was interred on the spot where he fell.

Boards to Merge For Mission Work

Joint Commission of United Lutheran Church Presents Plan for New Board of American Missions.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 22.—A complete reorganization of the home mission work of the United Lutheran Church in America will be effected at once as a result of two years of planning on the part of the Joint Commission for Reorganization of the Home Mission Work, which made its report this morning to the Lutheran convention, in session at Hotel Jefferson in this city. Five boards and committees held over from an earlier regime, each devoting its full attention to specialized mission work in North America, will be merged, under the plan presented, into one "Board of American Missions." The five boards affected are the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension, with headquarters in Chicago; the Board of Northwestern Missions, the Immigrants Mission Board, the West Indian Mission Board, and the Committee on Jewish Missions. New York city is recommended as headquarters for the new board, which will operate throughout the whole of North America, and require an annual budget of $337,100.

The Joint Commission, which is composed of twenty-one representatives from the five boards involved, submitted for adoption by the convention a constitution for the new Board of American Missions, a plan of operation and a chart. Under the plan proposed the Board will operate through two departments, a Department of Missions and a Department of Church Extension and Finance, each department to form divisions for the furtherance of their work. The Department of Missions will be charged to provide provisional secretaries and general superintendents, maintain and develop home missionary activities throughout the whole church, to provide a permanent missionary staff, the college and seminary, also for additional specialized training. In co-operation with the Board of Educational Institutions of the United Lutheran Church, Women's Missionary Society, Laymen's Movement, and others. Special attention will be given "to the spiritual needs of racial or language groups."

and the aim throughout will be "the preparation of men for life service as home missionaries." The Department of Church Extension and Finance will give special attention to increasing the resources of the board for the acquiring of property and the erection of churches and other buildings as may be required. Special attention will be given to church architecture in consultation with the Committee on Church Architecture of the United Lutheran Church.

It is further proposed that the new board will cooperate to the fullest extent with each local constituent synod, each synod being asked to elect from its own membership a synodical mission committee and a missionary superintendent, assuming responsibility for all missionaries and workers serving on its territory. The Joint Commission, which will function until the new Board of American Missions has met and is organized and legally constituted, presented to the convention the following nominations for members for the new board, giving representation as follows to the five existing boards and committees:

For six years, the Rev. H. D. E. Siebolt, Northwestern; the Rev. J. M. Francis, D. D., Home; the Rev. George Gebert, D. D., Immigrants; the Rev. F. O. Evers, Jewish; J. B. Franke, Home; H. P. Heuer, West Indies; G. L. Maros, Northwestern.

For four years: the Rev. G. A. Benz, D. D., Northwestern; the Rev. H. W. A. Hanson, D. D., West Indies; the Rev. F. E. Jensen, Immigrants; the Rev. J. B. Markward, D. D., Home; H. L. Snyder, Jewish; Grant Hultberg, Immigrants; C. J. Driever, Home.

For two years: the Rev. J. C. Seegers, D. D., Home; the Rev. G. K. Rubrecht, D. D., Home; the Rev. A. E. Bell, D. D., Jewish; the Rev. C. A. Freed, D. D., West Indies; S. F. Tellen, West Indies; Albert Niemoth, Northwestern; H. E. Young, Immigrants.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

Reception was clear and in slightly increased volume last night but there was still only a very much circumscribed field for the radio golfers. Some day soon, perhaps today, the blanket will roll away and there will be really good DX reception again.

Blooming was atrocious early in the evening. Same old story of the idiots who think that making their sets howl will bring in stations that are barred out by atmospheric conditions.

The first of the Balkite hours to be broadcast through WEAF, WOC, WEEL, WGR, WFI, WCAE, WWSJ, WSAL, WTAM, WGN, KSD, WCCO and WDAF each Saturday evening will occur at 8 o'clock on Saturday, October 23. These outstanding programs will bring Walter Damrosch, "Dean of American conductors," and the New York Symphony Orchestra to radio listeners in series of symphony concerts and lecture recitals to continue for many weeks on Saturday evenings. The opening program will be broadcast from the well-known Chamber Music Hall located in Carnegie Hall in New York city.

Membership Rally at Y. W.

On Monday evening of next week the Kingston Young Women's Christian Association will hold its annual membership rally at the Y. W. Hall at 8 o'clock in the evening. Mrs. Rice, the president of the association, will preside at the meetings and will extend the greetings of the Y. W. to all present.

A "thrilling" program has been arranged for the evening. The C. L. U. G. Club—members of the Girl Reserves—will give a little play, "The Girl of the Triangle." There will be a group of three musical selections by the Mandolin Club, Mrs. Inez M. Buley, leader. Then the Business Girls' Club will put on a comedy, "Tell it to Venus," after which there will be a social time. This part of the evening's pleasure will be in charge of Mrs. Harry Walker, chairman of the membership committee, and Mrs. Seth Staples, chairman of the hospitality committee. During the evening refreshments will be served by a group of the Live-Yer Girls. Members and friends of the Y. W. are cordially invited to this membership rally and are promised a happy, enjoyable evening.

Fad of Modern Girls

Costs Mothers Money
"I'm glad my daughter is so small," said the mother of the college girl, "because that gives her a chance to wear out her own clothes. What do I mean? Why, didn't you know that college girls borrow one another's clothes as easily and boldly as a youth takes a cigarette off of a friend? Yes, that's the custom now, and many a mother fairly bubbles over with rage when she sees her daughter's apparel going to pieces through some one's wearing it besides daughter. It does no use to protest, for daughter snaps back: 'You're old-fashioned and very stingy. All girls lend their clothes nowadays.' The mothers wait back: 'But I bought and paid for those clothes; you didn't. What right have you to lend them?' And daughter replies: 'How frightfully ungenerous you are, mother!' Yes, I've known about this clothes-lending business and I'm glad enough that my daughter is unusually small so that there'll be less chance for lending."—Springfield Union.

47th Birthday Of Electric Light

Thomas A. Edison Celebrates His 47th Birthday in Electric Light and Power Industry His Greatest Work—Field is Unlimited.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 22 (AP).—Thursday was the 47th birthday anniversary of the electric light.

Thomas A. Edison, 84 year old resident of Menlo Park, who fathered the phonograph, motion picture and electric railway as practical achievements, considers the inventions that underlie the $7,500,000,000 electric light and power industry his most important work.

The aged inventor also is convinced that his profession blazes the way to universal peace.

"Invention has not led to war," he told The Associated Press in the office of his laboratory building. "Invention has produced a reasoning and a questioning age. People are becoming, because of the changes brought about by invention, more intelligent, and will not stand for exploitation by emperors and kings and nations. There is more reasoning and questioning today than ever before. We are in the process of discarding those things which in the past have been broadens of war and oppression."

Would Prefer Invention Again.

If he had his life to live over, the inventor said, he would again turn his attention to the field of invention.

"The field is unlimited," he asserted. "If I were to begin my career over again I would turn to electric light, heat and chemical reactions. The young man so inclined should have no hesitation in taking up invention as a profession, provided he has imagination and the will to work."

Mr. Edison, stooped by age, carefully dressed, with a faded white rose drooping from the lapel of his old office coat, took time from his work, a rarely granted privilege, to recall the days that followed his discovery that a loop of carbonized sewing thread, sealed in a bulb from which the air had been pumped, and connected with electric current, would burn for 48 hours.

3,000 Saw First Lamp.

On New Year's eve, 1879, he remembered, 3,000 persons traveled to Menlo Park to view the amazing new lamp from which developed one of the world's greatest industries, but it was not until 1882 that the first central generating station, in Pearl street, New York, was placed in operation.

Much has been done since that day in developing electricity, but even more remains to be done, he declared. Farm power he believed the most pressing need, meaning by that the extension of transmission lines so that electrical power would be made available to every farmer in country at low cost.

The inventor's talk was spotted with the word "cost". His energies are constantly directed toward reduction of cost so that the benefits of invention may be available to more people.

Successful Whaler

The British whaling industry reached its zenith at the end of the eighteenth century; since that time whaling has been very largely in the hands of Scandinavian and American whalers. One of the biggest catches ever recorded was that secured, just over a hundred years ago, by a Scotch whaler, which landed blubber and whalebone to the value of $11,000. At today's prices, the whalebone alone would have realized not less than $120,000.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

New York—Mrs. Coolidge still owns and loves her first doll and she would have been an enthusiastic Girl Scout had the organization existed when she was young, writes Mrs. Herbert Hoover in the American Girl. It was planned to syndicate the article but Mrs. Coolidge disapproved.

Philadelphia—Princess Helena is using a portable typewriter to tell dad about her trip. The machine was a gift.

New York—Prince Nicholas will have a road test soon with his new sport roadster, a gift. There's no doubt he will pass. Accompanied by a licensed operator he has shown skill already dodging elevator pillars. He wore a blue suit, a light gray topcoat, pleated and belted, a blue four-in-hand with red and brown stripes and a brown fedora.

Hollywood, Cal.—Says W. G. McAdoo: "There is no office I want less than that of president of the United States."

New York—Clara Barrett is challenging Lotty Moore Schoenmel, who in the last month has swum farther than most people walk in that time. The only condition is a $1,000 bet. There are no restrictions on costume or lack of it.

Atlantic City—The lure of health, wealth and beauty causes the American people to be robbed of half a billion dollars annually. In making this estimate W. E. Humphrey of the federal trade commission put much blame on magazines for accepting advertisements of cure-alls and of schools guaranteeing pulchritude and success. He exonerated most newspapers.

New York—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler would deplore the loss of hell if it should develop there is no such place. He says it is necessary, if for no other reason in order that a man may express himself with vigorous completeness.

New York—The number of Robert Browns in the telephone directory is to be reduced to 21. One of them has received legal authorization to change his name to Bertrand because of the confusion.

New York—The Lambs are gambling in peace again. A hot fight for the office of treasurer, caused by disciplinary measures for non-payment of bills ended with the withdrawal of one candidate and the promise of the other to create a loan fund to help out actors in straits.

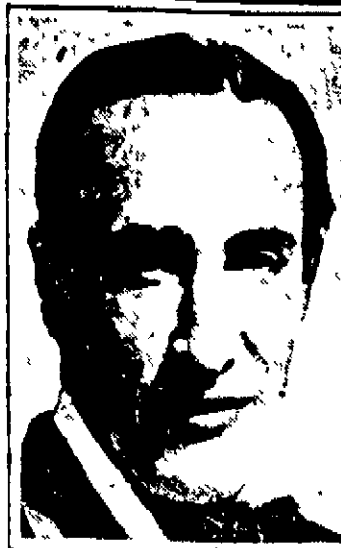

To His Wife

You make me do what you will; you have full sovereignty here, and I award you with all my heart the command in all household matters, reserving my rights in other points. Never any good came out of female domination. God created Adam master and lord of all living creatures; but Eve spilt all when she persuaded him to set himself above God's will. 'Tis you women with your tricks and artifices that lead men into error.—Luther.

HARRY NETBURN

73 BROADWAY, DOWNTOWN.

A REAL OPPORTUNITY!

To meet a growing demand for a tea room of the better class at Rifton Lake, I have erected a 10 room semi-bungalow with every modern improvement, also a two car garage.

There are about 20 acres of tillable land with perfect drainage suitable for chickens, orchard, vineyard or garden crops. Also a fine piece of woodland containing about seven acres.

This fine property overlooks the lake and is located at the corner of the Rifton-New Paltz State Highway and the private road leading to the Sturgeon Pool Dam, where visitors from every state in the Union come to view the Hydro Electric Power Plant of the United Hudson Electric Corporation. The company extends a welcome to the public to visit their plant.

There are two bus lines running between Kingston and New York that pass the door, also splendid local bus service between New Paltz, the home of the Normal School, and Kingston.

At present a fine bridge is being erected at Poughkeepsie linking that city with Highland. When completed, this should make this property very valuable, as building lots, etc., would be in demand. Price low. Terms arranged.

Much Work for Board of Bishops

Twenty-Nine Methodist Bishops Will Decide Problems Affecting Church When They Meet at Denver, Colorado, in November.

Denver, Colorado, Oct. 22.—Twenty-nine bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church will be present at the Board of Bishops Meeting in Denver, Colorado, November 5 to 11. All the executive sessions will be held in the new Trinity Building of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. Loren M. Edwards, D. D., pastor. All the twenty active bishops in the United States will be present and give reports of the church activities in their respective areas. Five bishops from foreign lands, will be present. These bishops are John L. Nielsen, Zurich, Switzerland; Edgar Blake, Paris, France; William F. Oldham, Buenos Ayres, Argentina; Frederick B. Fisher, Calcutta, India; Titus Lowe, Singapore, Straits Settlements; Francis W. Warner, Bangalore City, India.

The chief function of the Board will be the assignments of the bishops to preside at and set the time of the annual conferences. The work of the church at home and abroad will be discussed, special emphasis being put on World Service, including foreign and home missions, education, church schools, the Epworth League, universities and colleges, hospitals and homes, American Bible society, ministerial pensions and relief, and special attention will be given to temperance, prohibition and public morals. Stress will be made of religious education, evangelism and the present state of moral, religious and spiritual conditions in the United States and in foreign lands.

The bishops will preach on Sunday, November 7, in the various Methodist and other Protestant pulpits in Denver; also in the leading Methodist Churches in Eastern Colorado.

On Tuesday, November 9, the twenty-nine bishops will officially dedicate the National Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Colorado Springs. A committee, of which Ralph Mayo of Denver, is chairman, will take the bishops in autos from Denver to Colorado Springs and return. At Colorado Springs after the dedication, the bishops will be entertained at a public banquet by the local Methodists.

Dr. Edwards the general chairman, announced today that a general public reception and banquet, would be given to the visiting bishops at Trinity Building, November 8th, at which Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Detroit and Charles Wesley Burns of San Francisco would represent the episcopacy. Monday evening, November 8th, a mass public meeting will be held at Trinity Auditorium and Bishops Frederick B. Fisher of India and Bishop Edgar Blake of Paris, France, will speak.

Wednesday night, November 10, another mass public meeting will be held in Trinity Auditorium at which two bishops from foreign lands will speak, Bishops William F. Oldham of Buenos Aires and Titus Lowe of Singapore.

While the bishops are in session in Denver, they will be chapel speakers at the University of Denver, Iliff School of Theology and at various service clubs of the city.

The general committee in charge of arrangements and entertainment of the bishops consists of: Bishop Charles L. Mead, resident bishop; Dr. Loren M. Edwards, chairman; Dr. H. Guy Goodell, District Superintendent; Rev. Samuel Marble, president of the Denver Methodist Ministers' Meeting; J. S. Fehling, chairman of finance; Lewis A. Dick, secretary of the general committee, and other prominent clergy and laymen.

Japs Make Formosa Pay

The island of Formosa (Taiwan) has been a Japanese possession since 1895. For ten years the home government was forced to pour funds into the island treasury in order to maintain its administration. Since 1905, however, the island has been more than self-supporting, and since 1909 has contributed to the revenues of Japan proper. The revenues and expenditures of Taiwan have grown enormously under Japanese rule and at the present time amount to around 100,000,000 yen annually. The budget has never shown a deficit.

Open Air Is Best

The open air is better than any auditorium ever devised, as far as clearness of hearing is concerned, according to a recent report of University of California physicists. The walls of a room may increase the general loudness of speech sounds, but this is more than counteracted by the confusing reverberations the walls introduce. A room that is carefully padded with hair-felt, or that is built with a porous, spongy wallplaster, will approach, though not equal, open-air conditions.

Singing Cicadas

The ancient Greeks kept cicadas in cages for the sake of their songs. They were favorites with most Greek poets. A cicada sitting on a harp was a usual emblem of music. In explanation of which there was a story of two rival musicians, Ennomus and Ariston, the former of whom broke a string of his harp one day when competing with the latter. A cicada, however, flew to his rescue and sitting upon the harp supplied the place of the broken string and so won him the victory. Fabius thinks the Greek cicadas would be crickets.

Followed Directions

The young daughter wanted to practice at baking while the mother took a drive. Upon her return the mother found every bowl in the house had been used, and all were standing in a row on the kitchen table, ready for washing. Upon inquiry, the embryo cook explained: "Well, the recipe said to beat eight eggs separately."—Christian Science Monthly.

Pro Grid Game Here Sunday at The Fair Grounds

Kingston's Professional Football Squad Will Tackle the Beacon Eleven Here Sunday—Big Crowd Expected.

"Something new under the sun" for Kingston in football will be inaugurated at the Fair Grounds Sunday afternoon when the Yellow Jackets—the most successful team in the Colonial City has had for years in any branch of the sport—turns its guns on the Beacon squad in a Hudson Valley League contest.

With the unusual ability and strength which Coach Preston's men have met three down-river eleven and stepped out of the fray unscathed each time, the Kingston aggregation is a great favorite for Sunday and undoubtedly will be greatly backed by local fans. The contest is scheduled to get under way at 2.30 o'clock.

Beacon was not an over-difficult problem when the Kingston gridiron met this outfit in the initial match of the season but reports come from this down-river camp that the Beaconites have strengthened since. One or two griders of ability have joined the Beacon band in an effort to give Kingston more trouble in this second battle. West Point Artillery gave Manager Redhead's men the toughest game they have encountered this season but the Kingstonians came through at the right moment and trimmed the soldiers. Poughkeepsie never once offered the Yellow Jackets anything in the way of competition as the rode through the Bridge City forces for six touchdowns and a win of 36 to 0.

The Yellow Jackets have held two signal practices this week under the Armory lamplight and will come together once more before Sunday's contest.

Deadly Poison Rings

There were two forms of poison rings, those simply affording in the base a secret receptacle, so that the poison might always be at service for the purpose of suicide, and those provided with a hollow point to which, on touching the spring, the venom ran as in a snake's fang, so that the murderer could give a fatal scratch while shaking hands.

The Kingston Yellow Jackets

The Yellow-Jacket Football Team is different from most professional teams. Ordinarily the best of players are summoned from anywhere and assembled to represent one particular city, though their residence be many hundred miles from that city. The players who have banded together to represent Kingston on the gridiron are all Kingston boys. They are known by the title of "Yellow-Jackets". The following individual write-up will give some idea of their ability and experience:

Captain Lee Hasbrouck came from Iowa two years ago. At the Hamilton High School, Hamilton, Iowa, he played football for three years in remarkable manner. Lee sustained slight injuries to his ribs in the first game of this season with Beacon, which required him to abandon the game for a short period. He will probably be able to resume his activities this Sunday.

During Lee's absence from the team, "Punk" Vogt, the stellar quarterback, has acted as captain in excellent fashion. At Kingston High, Punk played for four years in the backfield and for four years made his berth on the All-Hudson team, 1921, '22, '23, '24.

"Joe" Hoffman is a great man on an end run. He is one of the four-horsemen of Kingston. He played for one year on the local high school team and would undoubtedly have played more but for an unfortunate handicap.

"Stan" Colvin plays a brilliant halfback position. He played for two years on the Kingston High team and was rewarded with a position on the All-Hudson team in 1922.

John Clonon is the sailor fallback, and what a sailor he is! He played for one year on both the Newport Training Station team and the U. S. S. Frederick team.

"Vince" Rice and Harry Scheffel support the ends of the line. They have both had about the same experience in football, both having played for one year on the Kingston High team. They both play a remarkable brand of football. Harry showed his mettle last Sunday when he took his man out in excellent fashion, but was slightly injured, which will require him to take it easy for a few weeks.

Earl McLane plays tackle on the left side of the line. He needs little introduction to football enthusiasts. He played for four years on the local high school line and made his berth as the All-Hudson tackle for '22, '23, '24.

Bill Clarke is the big tackle on the other side of the line. Bill came from Binghamton a year ago, where he played for two years on the Binghamton High School team for one year on the Binghamton Professional Team.

Harold Mahoney and Frank Sam-

Sport Briefs Of All Sorts

(By The Associated Press.) "A can of balls please," will soon greet sporting goods clerks, according to an official of a manufacturing company, who says that golf and tennis balls are to be canned to prevent deterioration.

Illinois has ten states represented, aside from homebreds, on the football squad of the university. Three are from Indiana, two each from Michigan and Missouri, and one apiece from Ohio, Minnesota, California, Oklahoma, Montana, Idaho and Rhode Island.

Cleveland and the Philadelphia Athletics wanted Lance Richbourg, heavy hitting outfielder of the Milwaukee brewers, but they had cash alone to offer. After the sale of Fritz Schulte to the St. Louis Browns for $100,000, Manager Otto Doehert wanted players to bolster his outfit. As a result the Boston Braves got Lance for $7,500, infielder Harry Riccenda, and outfielder Wilson Boston College alumnus.

Donald Craige, captain and center on the Marquette eleven boasts a knowledge of football more than "perfect." In an examination given the sound recently on the rules of the game and their interpretation, Craige scored 104 points when the coach allowed 15 for each of seven questions to avoid a bothersome fraction. Just one point could be deducted for errors leaving the captain four above a perfect mark.

moons are the husky, impenetrable guards. Harold played for three years on the Kingston High team and was awarded a position on the All-Hudson team in 1925. Frank played for only one year at the high school, but what a man he's developed into!

Well protected is the very capable center, "Len" O'Reilly. But he plays his own game. He was one of the mainstays for one year on the Erasmus Hall High team of Brooklyn, and had an equally successful year on the local high team.

The substitutes are a lively, ambitious bunch. Fred Ehnes's tackle from the kick-off last Sunday would have placed him on any college team. Lester Martin and Paul Howard played equally as well.

The average weight of the Yellow-Jackets is about 180 pounds. They are a lively crowd and are playing to the best of their ability to represent Kingston on the gridiron as such a city should be represented. They have won their first three games with Beacon, West Point Artillery, and Poughkeepsie and bid fair to end the season an undefeated team.

COLONIAL BOWLERS WIN OVER IMMANUEL

In one of the best matches ever bowled on the Immanuel alley, the Colonials defeated the Immanuel Five by 34 pins. Going into the last game, the Colonials had a 111 pins to the good. The Immanuel team put up a good fight but the advantage was too much to overcome. Reis took all the honors for the evening, having single game high score of 210 and an average of 192 for the three games. Next Thursday night the two teams will clash again.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENTS

William R. Kraft Candidate For Assembly Tells People Where He Stands

TO THE VOTERS OF ULSTER COUNTY:

The Democratic Party of this county has placed my name before the voters as a candidate for Member of Assembly. I have accepted the nomination, being mindful of the fact that for the past two years, the county has been without proper representation.

The present incumbent, my opponent, the Hon. Millard H. Davis, has voted against progressive measures that have been presented in the Assembly during the time he has been there and has failed to consider the measures which would benefit the people as a whole. This is not a fair attitude as all classes are entitled to equal representation.

I enter this campaign in the open and fearlessly state my position on various issues which might arise during the next session of the Legislature and cordially invite my opponent to do likewise, in order that the voters of this county may decide who will best represent them. I stand for economy, in so far as it will not injure the progress nor impair the prestige of the state.

I believe in the construction of more concrete highways, believing them to be more economical in the long run and am in favor of building wider roads on the trunk highways, and for the best possible roads in the rural sections.

I BELIEVE THAT THOSE WHO USE THE HIGHWAYS OF THE STATE MOST, SHOULD PAY IN PROPORTION FOR THE BUILDING AND MAINTENANCE OF SUCH HIGHWAYS. I, THEREFORE, AM IN FAVOR OF A GASOLINE TAX AND AM FURTHER IN FAVOR OF A JUST DISTRIBUTION OF THE FUNDS SO COLLECTED. A MAJORITY OF THE STATES HAVE A GASOLINE TAX AND THE CITIZENS OF NEW YORK WHO TRAVEL IN THOSE STATES BY AUTOMOBILE MUST PAY THIS TAX AND HELP TO MAINTAIN THE HIGHWAYS OF SUCH STATE. WHY SHOULD THE CITIZENS FROM ANY OF THESE STATES TRAVEL BY AUTOMOBILE IN NEW YORK STATE WITHOUT PAYING THIS TAX? IT IS A WELL ESTABLISHED FACT THAT MORE FOREIGN CARS TRAVEL THE HIGHWAYS OF NEW YORK STATE THAN ANY OTHER STATE IN THE COUNTRY. IF SUCH A GASOLINE TAX WERE IN EFFECT IN NEW YORK STATE THERE NATURALLY WOULD BE A MATERIAL REDUCTION IN THE LICENSE FEES AND IN ALL PROBABILITY THE LICENSE ON PASSENGER CARS WOULD BE REDUCED TO A NOMINAL FLAT SUM.

I recognize the justice of a claim that the school building of the New Paltz Normal School is inadequate and that an addition is necessary for the accommodation of more pupils who are endeavoring to become teachers. I am in favor of an appropriation for the construction of such buildings at this institution located at New Paltz, as the State Department of Education may deem necessary.

I call attention to the fact that the people of the state will in this election have the first opportunity to express their approval or disapproval of the present prohibition law. This expression should be binding. I will personally vote "Yes" on the referendum and advise my friends to do likewise. I ask Mr. Davis how he will vote on the referendum and how he will advise his friends to vote.

I am for the protection of women and children in industry.

I am for any measure that will enable the farmer to secure better markets for his produce and for any just aid which the state may be able to give him.

If I am elected I will not be controlled by any individual nor any organization and shall at all times work for the best interests of the people of this county and state, bearing in mind that an elective office is not the gift of a party but the will of the people.

(Signed)
WM. R. KRAFT,

Member of Assembly.

The Newburgh-Jersey City Team

When the Newburgh-Jersey City team of the newly formed National Basketball League played its season at Newburgh on Saturday, October 23, and at the Jersey City Armory on Thursday, October 28, it will have one of the best balanced combinations in the organization. Low White, who led the team at Newburgh, and Phil Ehrhardt at Jersey City, Al Kellett, regarded as the leading center man in the country, will be the big ace of the team. Kellett's work last year stamped him as an outstanding star beyond question, and he is expected to lead the team in the backcourt. In the backcourt, too, will be Willie MacDonald, who two years ago was recognized as the best looking young player to break into the old Metropolitan League in the five years of its existence. Together with Leo Malone, another experienced star, and Herman Bergkamp. This quartet will be all able to handle the defense in a formidable fashion, as there is a great scattering of ability scattered throughout it. In the forward positions, Eddie White, who for years has been one of the point scoring leaders of the team, coupled with Willie Carey, who starred last season with the Tunkers, N. Y. combination, Dutch Dorman, who did likewise in Greenpoint, and Lajeskie, the big first baseman of the Doherty Silk Sox. This is Lajeskie's first year in professional league circles, but great hopes are being built on his ability to make good. All of this crew have been proven strong capable basketballers. Carey, Kellett, Dorman and MacDonald are as fast a quartet as may be found in the country. Their forte is speed. Malone, after spending years as one of the leading pivot men of the game has dropped back to guard where his unerring accuracy from the floor may well be used. Dreyfus, as a heady director is second to none, and with long years of experience to his credit the work of the opposition in scoring many points on this pair will be rather difficult. Bergkamp and Lajeskie will be used as alternates and in this respect the club is well fortified.

The Interior of His Home

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

JULIA met him at one of those downtown restaurants where light and color and dancing and jazz are the predominant notes.

"I wonder what pleasure you get coming to these places?" Julia questioned him and gazed frankly into his gleaming eyes.

Donald Mills looked back at the intelligent rather than pretty face of the girl whom he had met a half hour before and smiled a more or less pathetic smile.

"I don't know. I come, however, nearly every evening—that is when I'm not up at the Hargrave's flat. I detect staying home."

"What's the matter with home?" asked Julia with her bright engaging smile. "What is in your interior there?"

Donald actually laughed. "Chicken salad—for the moment and soon I suppose it will be a cup of black coffee."

After laughing with him she pursued her subject. "Your home interior, I mean. What color?"

"I couldn't tell you. Green and red I fancy. Nothing startling except that the walls are a vicious shade of drab green with brown trees all over them."

"How perfectly awful!" Julia, sensitive to color in a marked degree shuddered. She recalled now the joyous cheer of the Hargrave's flat, with its warm orange and yellow and Chinese blue.

"It's no wonder you can't stay home," she looked eagerly at him and wondered if she dare suggest that she try her hand at lightening up his home. She had done a fair number of houses and was gradually working up a nice business of her own. "I wonder if you would let me decorate your rooms for you—just as an experiment in psychology?" she finally asked.

"Do this type of work, but if you will let me do your home I will do it at my own expense. It will be interesting to me to know whether or not I can make it possible for you to remain at home evenings. A home," she added with one of her sweetest smiles, "should be a place which lures a man's soul to it even when he is hard at work in the office."

"If you could make me think of dashing home—during business hours—just for the joy and peace of being there—well," Donald, too, offered the nicest kind of smile to her, "then any expense you are put to will be more than repaid. I fly at present from my rooms as if a hornet's nest were there."

When Julia had her first glimpse of his rooms she drew back with the feeling that a madman had chosen the things within them. However, she took her courage in hand and went to work to bring cheer and beauty where the most profound ugliness held sway.

First thing Julia did was to send the assorted collection of furniture to work rooms to have them made a rich shade of blue enamel and upholstered, where necessary, in blue velvet to match. "Men love velvet," she mused.

She had the walls stripped of the hideous paper, and a lustrous glazed copper put on instead. All the wood-work was done to match the chairs. She hung softest of gold curtains at the windows and sent his fearful carpet to the dyers to be made a good shade of blue. She scattered a few wonderful Chinese cushions about and put in two lamp shades of old gold, one behind the comfortable sofa and another over his work table.

"But can't I come over once, just to see how you are getting on?" he had asked her in the beginning when she had turned him out to board for a few weeks.

"Not one peep until it is all done," Julia had insisted.

Donald's bedroom she made all buff and deep warm crimson.

"All men love red," she told herself, and was really pleased with the two rooms when finished.

When Donald saw his rooms for the first time he drew a long breath of quiet admiration.

For the first time in several drab years Donald had a desire to leave the office and sink down into that wonderful old chair under the lamp and read.

It was only the beginning of Donald's more cheerful outlook. He even began to have a few friends in and to reveal in the closer friendships that the home atmosphere seemed to weld. The old crowd seemed to meet in Donald's rooms now, rather than in the restaurants. A magnet drew them, but they hardly realized that it was the color-ful atmosphere of home.

Julia, on the other hand, had become a wee bit shy. Her business, too, had increased and absorbed most of her time.

It was Donald who had become frankly questioning. He watched her with complete adoration in his eyes on one rare occasion when she graced his party. "Are you doing many bachelor's rooms now?" he questioned her, and when she nodded with deepened color, he asked: "And do they all fall in love with you?"

"None of them do," she said with a smile.

"Well, then I'll tell you about one who has," said Donald.

Around the Home

Beautifying the Practical

Every so often I feel it my special mission in life to protest against the general ugliness of our common household appliances. Why on earth we should have a charming hearth-brush in the living room and a hideous yellow-handled red-labelled broom in the kitchen, I don't see. Why should the tea-cart in the dining room be lovely to look at and the ironing-board in the laundry be "as plain as an old maid's face," as the old saying was many years ago.

Recently I have been trying to educate some of the manufacturers of household tools, implements and furniture by writing to them and suggesting amusing decorative handles, gay coats of paint or enamel, and perhaps a bit of really good designing in the shape of the article itself. If they only knew it, women would buy their wares just twice as fast if they were beguiled by a delft blue dust-pan, an ironing-board with the legs painted sage green and buff, or a carpet sweeper of orange and black. A set of kitchen forks and dish mops with blue handles to match the blue-tiled linoleum would be irresistible to most housewives.

Well, they'll do it some day, and then we shall have beautiful refrigerators as well as beautiful highboys, attractive gas stoves as well as lovable open fireplaces. Meanwhile, we must do the best we can by beautifying our practical household conveniences ourselves. Get a few cans of bright enamels, carrying out the color plan of your kitchen and dining-room, possibly, and make your prosaic tools lovely to look at and fun to work with. Brighten up the ironing board standard, paint up the step-ladder, doll up the broom and brush handles, decorate the carpet sweeper. Paint the plain kitchen table, decorate the plain kitchen chairs. Use blue and white and yellow bowls to mix things in.

There is no place in the modern kitchen, gay with crisp curtains, pots of flowers on the sill, and rows of pretty plates on the wall, for the unadorned and ugly tools of common household service. If the makers will not beautify them, we must do it ourselves.

Upstate Trip Encourages Mills

Republican Candidate For Governor Returns To Metropolitan Area Confident He Will Win—Was Warmly Received on Upstate Trip.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP).—Congressman Orden L. Mills, Republican candidate for governor, today carried his campaign into the metropolitan area. His schedule called for addresses in Suffern, Spring Valley and Nyack.

Mr. Mills completed his upstate campaign last night. The remaining days before election will be spent in and about New York. He said he was returning "with the very definite conviction that I am going to win."

His final upstate meeting at Watertown last night was characterized as "one of the most enthusiastic" on the tour by the congressman.

"Candidates are generally supposed to be very poor judges," he said, "but if the size of the meetings, the interest of the crowds and the enthusiasm that has been evident all through my upstate campaign mean anything then there is not a doubt that I will get not only the normal Republican vote upstate, but something better than the normal vote."

Look At Any Price

Traffic at the intersection of Washington and Alabama streets came to a sudden standstill. A moment later scores of sirens from machines chugging away for nearly a block in each direction shrieked their impatience while motorists leaning out of their cars craned their necks to see what it was all about. A "silver" had come to a dead stop on the tracks a few feet from a street car guard.

Out of the front seat of the small car climbed the driver. He bent over between the machine and the street car and picked up a horseshoe. In a great state of jubilation he waved it over his head, got back into his car, started the engine again and moved on.—Indianapolis News.

California, Here I Come

California has been willing modestly to wear the name of having the "biggest" trees in the world, the largest university in the United States, the tallest lars and no end of other superlatives which it was impossible to dodge, but it seems like piling it on to claim the largest state prison population in the world. Warden Frank Smith of San Quentin prison, says so. He isn't exactly bragging about it, but explaining why $465,100 is being spent for remodeling and expansion.

The Other Writer

Harold Bell Wright can pun rather bitterly. Invited to a hot weather Bohemian party, he was informed that among the guests would be Mr. Blank, a highbrow novelist whose score of Mr. Wright is well known, but whose books fail to sell.

"You know Mr. Blank, don't you?" asked the hostess.

"Ah, yes," murmured Mr. Wright. "The young intellectual, you mean?" —The New Yorker.

TAMED BULL SNAKE THAT BECAME PET

How Kindness Made Wild Creature Harmless.

An old adobe wall enclosed the kitchen garden at the Los Flores ranch-house in southern California. No one remembered when it was built and no one remembered when part of it had fallen into decay. The owner of the ranch decided to rebuild the broken sections and delegated half a dozen of his men to do the work.

While they were removing a pile of crumbling earth, they disturbed a fat young chestnut-brown bull snake about three feet in length. Most of the men wanted to kill the snake, but Jose, a Mexican youth who rode the line fences daily, prevailed upon them to spare the young snake and his cavern home.

Time passed, the snake was frequently seen around the barn and outbuildings where he hunted rats and mice. Jose called him "Hank" and implored the other men to treat him with respect.

At first Hank was shy. He would hurry out of sight and coil under the nearest cover at the sound of approaching footsteps. By the middle of summer he seemed to understand that he had a perfect right to enjoy all the privileges of other pets. For hours at a time he would bask in the sun on the top step of the south porch at the ranch-house and another favored spot was the one step at the bunk-house where Jose slept.

During the winter he lived more secluded in his adobe cavern, rarely appearing on damp, cloudy days. Then it was that Jose began cultivating a closer acquaintance. With bits of meat and lumps of sugar he would sit near Hank's front door and strum on his ukelele. After a few minutes, the dark head of the snake would appear, his little beady eyes taking on a soft expression and his mouth open in expectation.

Jose always gave him two lumps of sugar, then the meat and finished with two more lumps of sweet. After he had swallowed the tidbits he would crawl close to the side of the young man and listen to the soft dreamy sounds coming from the strangled instrument. To some of the times he would keep time by swaying motion of his smooth head.

When the hills began wearing their coats of green, Hank was no tame that Jose carried him around the ranch on the trips of fence inspection. If a broken wire or a weak staple needed fixing, Jose would place Hank on the ground near by, attend to the mending job, pick the snake up, mount his pony and go on his way.

Whenever Jose would find a gopher hole on the trip he would stop and start Hank down it. Sometimes he would see no more of his pet for two or three days, then Hank would greet him from the adobe cavern.

Jose rode the boundary for five years after the discovery of the snake and, barring the first 12 months, Hank was nearly always his companion. In four years he grew from a slender young spring into a handsome big black bull snake seven feet long and about three inches in diameter.

The ranch changed owners. Jose took a position some miles distant. The wife of his new employer objected to the presence of the snake pet.

Almost tearfully Jose visited the adobe cavern, gave Hank a farewell supper, and played all their old favorite tunes.

Three weeks after Jose's departure from Los Flores, Hank was found curled up on the step of the bunk-house, dead. Those who knew of the strange friendship declared that the bull snake died of a "broken heart."

ROAD BUILDING

IOWA FARMER TO BUILD HIGHWAY

A quarter of a million dollars to build a paved road is the gift of a retired Iowa farmer to the community in which he has lived and made his fortune. Alexander Coleman is his name and the road is to be built from Hillsboro, in Henry county, three and a half miles south, past the Coleman homestead and then seven miles east to Lee county, to a connection with the so-called Mt. Pleasant-Fort Madison road. The county boards of the two counties have accepted the offer, and it is expected that the road will be graded this year and paved in 1937.

"It is only a county road, but when the pavement is finished it will undoubtedly be christened the 'Coleman Road' and will be distinguished for years perhaps as the longest stretch of secondary road pavement in Iowa," says the Iowa State Highway commission service bulletin. "The road is the generosity of one of the pioneer citizens of the community on whom fortune has smiled and who has chosen this very practical way to bestow a part of his fortune for the benefit of the public as a memorial to the family name."

There are other evidences that Iowa is soon going to have roads. Twelve counties have voted this year to authorize the building of 421 miles of paving and have voted to issue $12,900,000 in bonds for this purpose. When this is completed it will give Iowa 1,013 miles of pavement.

Iowa's primary roads are all built and financed by the counties. No paving can be done unless authorized by a vote of the people. The question of issuing bonds must be voted on separately.

The first election on the question of authorizing a county board to proceed with hard surfacing was held in June, 1919. Up to date, 54 elections have been held in as many counties on the same question. The proposal was carried in 34 counties, but in one the authorization was rescinded, leaving 33 counties in which it is possible to pave if funds are available. In 44 counties elections have been held to authorize bond issues for paving primary roads. The proposal has carried in 28 counties, with a total authorization of $28,061,984 for bonds for paving.

These authorizations have been voted without regard to the probable future action on a state bond issue. Fifty-five members of the legislature met recently and advocated calling a special session to submit the question of issuing $100,000,000 in bonds for paved state roads. Present indications are that there will be no special session, but that the matter will come up at the regular session in 1937.

Rims Used on Tractors Save Highway Surfaces

Warning from the Minnesota State Highway department against driving tractors or traction engines on paved or tarred roads has caused a protest in some communities where farmers and thrashers say they will be greatly inconvenienced if they cannot use the trunk highways. To this the department replies with the suggestion that those who cannot avoid the paved or tarred roads without inconvenience, can at small expense equip their tractors with rims for highway travel. Several tractor manufacturers make rims or bands which fit outside the legs on the wheels. These rims can be put on very quickly when the highway is reached, and taken off just as easily. Tractor and traction engine operators who are in doubt are advised to consult the nearest highway maintenance personnel. The maintenance men will do anything reasonable to assist in the movement of such machines, but for the sake of other road users, machines which seriously damage the road surface cannot be permitted to use the highways.

Mount Rainier Highway Will Be Started Soon

Contract for the construction of the Round Pass section project of the White Side highway in Mount Rainier National park, Washington, has just been awarded Messrs. Joplin & Eidon of Portland, Ore., by the Department of the Interior. The estimated cost of this work is $204,004, less deductions for the use of certain government explosives as provided for in the contract. The work covered in the award is to be completed on or before July 1, 1939.

The approximate length of this section of the road is nine miles, but the United States has reserved the right to increase or decrease the length of the project so that the cost may come within the funds available.

Single Track Roads

Sometimes the financial resources of a community do not permit the construction of the necessary mileage of standard width pavement, or light traffic does not warrant the immediate construction of regular paving widths. Communities confronted with these problems have met their needs by building half-width, single-track pavements. When traffic demands it, or when additional funds are available, a second strip of single-track road can be built.

Second Greatest Painting

The second greatest painting in the world is said to be the "Last Communion of St. Jerome," by the great Italian artist Donatello, who lived in the early fifteenth century. It is in the Vatican gallery.

And the weather reports—the news and speeches—are clear. Radiola 20 gets the actual tone—gets it with a single turn of one control. It has a power tube for volume. It has five tubes, drawing small current, but made to do the same work as many more tubes. It runs inexpensively on dry batteries—gets the distant stations dependably—leads the field in performance among sets anywhere near its price!

ASSAULTED WIFE TAKEN TO ASYLUM

George Brown, aged 70, of 604 Chatham where he has resided for the past twenty years and was at one time a spirited political leader, was arrested on Wednesday following a complaint made by his wife, Rose L. Brown, aged 45, that he had assaulted her that morning with a hammer. She charged that the blow she received from the hammer rendered her insensible and the doctor who examined her said she had received a slight fracture. After papers were signed by Mrs. Brown her husband was examined by physicians and Judge G. Tracy of Hudson committed him to the hospital at Poughkeepsie where he will receive treatment which it is thought will restore his mental faculties.

N. Y. Bankers Receive Queen

New York, Oct. 22 (AP).—Queen Marie of Rumania, cheerful and vivacious despite the short hours of sleep she has had the last two nights, today plunged into another busy day such as she has experienced ever since her arrival Monday.

Snatching a short rest in her suite at the Hotel Ambassador after arriving this morning from Philadelphia, her first important engagement of the day was as a luncheon guest of the Bankers' Club, on the fortieth floor of the Equitable Building. Here she was received by New York bankers who wore the strictest afternoon dress.

Princess Ileana and Prince Nicholas accompanied their mother to the club. Newspapersmen were not allowed to enter.

The queen will visit Columbia University late today.

More Negro Than White Baptists

New York, Oct. 22 (AP).—The migration of negroes from the south has been so great during the past few years, the board of missionary cooperation of the Northern Baptist Convention announced today, that there are more negroes than white Baptists in both New York and Chicago. The increase has been so great in Detroit that whereas there were only five negro Baptist churches there in 1917 there are now sixty.

The northern influx of negroes and the great increase throughout the country of wide unchurched suburban belts were named as outstanding problems to be met by a special $1,000,000 fund to be raised next year by Northern Baptists for church building.

Fastest Wireless For Americans

New York, Oct. 22 (AP).—Americans will be served by the beam wireless system, described as the fastest wireless service in the world and which was inaugurated between London and Montreal yesterday, when 200 words a minute were exchanged.

J. G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, said today that his company through its association with the Marconi Company, will be able to take advantage of the new features of the beam system. He explained, however, that the new system will not supplant the present long wave high power facilities but will be used as an addition to the existing service.

Victims Will Be Called.

New York, Oct. 22 (AP).—Victims of alleged fraudulent sales of stock in the Morse Steamship enterprises will be called by the government in its trial of 17 men charged with promoting the sales, while the defense expects to call nationally prominent business men to offset the government testimony, it was learned today.

News of the Day In Wall Street

New York, Oct. 22 (AP).—S. S. Kresge Company earned $2.34 a share on the common stock in the nine months this year against $1.95 a share in the same period of 1923, net earnings rising to $8,721,120 from $7,235,915. Sales were $78,375,247 compared with $68,584,560 a year ago. Third quarter net earnings rose to $3,388,872 from $2,491,719 in the second quarter.

F. R. Fagool has resigned as vice president and a director of American Car and Foundry Motors Company.

Gross earnings of Southern California Edison Company for the nine months of 1924 were $20,694,231, an increase of $2,088,267 over the same period of 1923. After deducting fixed charges, balance for dividends and depreciation was $9,134,237 a gain of $650,202.

An initial dividend of $1.16 a share has been declared on the seven per cent convertible preferred stock of Adolph Gobel, Inc., for September and October, payable November 1 to holders of record October 25.

The lumber business is about five per cent heavier this year, business of the country's soft wood mills for the first 41 weeks having been 350 million board feet in excess of the same period of 1923, the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association reports. Both soft wood and hard wood had a larger market last week than the week before, current orders of soft wood mills being ten per cent higher than a year ago. Shipments were the same but production increased slightly.

New Gang Peace Treaty at Cicero

Chicago, Oct. 22 (AP).—Al, ("Scarface") Capone, reputed ruler of the vice lands of Cicero, rode home "alone" this morning "without fear that any minute I'd get a machine gun in my face," after signing a gang "peace treaty" in a loop hotel.

"Gangland's killings have come to an end in Chicago," he told a reporter for the Herald and Examiner after a two hour conference with representatives of a powerful north side band at which "all shook hands and made up, remembering the old days when we were all in one bunch and happy."

The final gathering was held, Capone said, after preliminary conferences between himself and an intermediary. It followed previous pleas for peace from the Cicero leader, who inveighed against "useless slaughter" on the ground that "there is enough business for us all."

"Now for the first time in two years I will sleep without a gun under my pillow," Capone was quoted as saying. "I believe it's peace to stay. I know I won't break it and I don't think they will."

Who Owns Labrador?

London, Oct. 22 (AP).—A map studied by George III and bearing notes that probably were his, today was presented before the judicial committee of the privy council by Sir John Simon, counsel for Newfoundland in an appeal to determine whether Canada or the colony of Newfoundland owns Labrador. Sir John said that the map had been obtained from the library of the British Museum.

The football team will resume practice and will play a scheduled game with Bolivar High School tomorrow. The students returned to school today and the board is expected to modify the order.

Y. M. AND Y. W. H. A. SECURE INTERESTING SPEAKER

The Y. M. and Y. W. H. A. have secured Joseph Bower, field secretary of the Jewish Welfare Board, New York city, who has done much toward the building of Jewish community centers and Y. M. H. A.'s throughout the state, to give a lecture at the Jewish Community Center, Broadway, on Sunday, October 26, at 8:30 P. M. This is not Mr. Bower's first appearance here as a speaker, for he was present when the officers of the Y. M. H. A. were installed two years ago. The topic on which the speaker will dwell is an interesting one and the public is invited to hear him.

Former Russian Count Found Dead.

New York, Oct. 22 (AP).—Arthur Tcherop-Spiridovich, a former Russian count who called himself president and conciliator of the American Slav Union and Latino-Slav League of the United States and Europe, was found dead in bed today at his Staten Island home. An ambulance surgeon found he died from gas escaping from a disconnected heater, but police believed the death was accidental.

Solving the Problem

There had been a good deal of argument about the way the young people carried on in the town square these summer evenings. Many of the city fathers thought it a public scandal, but they didn't have a big enough appropriation to employ special police.

The village hall, however, felt that he would solve the problem. He offered to do it for a can of black paint and $2. One of the town fathers was rash enough to furnish these requisites.

Next day the town was electrified to see that all the "No Parking" signs roundabout the square had, by the insertion of an "S" before the second word, become effective warnings to romantic youth.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Whale Industry Prospers

So little is said of the whaling industry in recent years that an impression prevails that it has become practically obsolete. There are today along the Pacific coast of North America whaling stations that yearly turn into marketable products about 1,000 whales, says the Detroit News. Besides oil, bone meal, whalebone, leather and glue, these mammals furnish meat in quantities by no means unimportant in the human food supply. A 50-ton whale represents a food value equal to that of 100 steers of one-half ton each, or 300 hogs of 200 pounds each. In this one area, therefore, the value of 100,000 cattle or 50,000 fat hogs is taken from the sea.

Parrot Stowaway

In a banana crate a Stockport (England) fruiterer found a beautifully plumaged parrot. The crate, which had come from the Canary Isles, had lain in a warehouse for some weeks after its arrival in England. The voyage occupied three weeks, so that the bird, which had nested in the fibrous packing material, must have been confined to its unusual home for a considerable time. Bananas in the crate had formed its dietary. It had lost nothing of its liveliness, for as soon as it was freed it jumped about the place and enjoyed its hearty meal.

Auto's Record Climbs

For the first time in the history of Mount Agassiz in Bethlehem, N. H., a motor car has reached the topmost pinnacle. Guests at the Summit house were startled by the arrival of a car with three passengers. The car was owned and driven by R. S. Faltson of Rockdale. The proprietor at the house station directed the party to the carriage road, thinking they were going to walk up. The driver started in his car and discovered his mistake when it was too late to turn around.

Large Indian Cotton Depot

The chief construction of the port of Bombay since the war has been the raw cotton depot, occupying 127 acres at Mazagon, which cost 15,000,000 rupees ($2,000,000) and is said to be the largest depot of its type in existence. It provides covered storage accommodation for 1,000,000 bales and open storage for a similar quantity. In the period from November, 1923, to March, 1924, 2,800,000 bales of cotton were handled at this depot.

Move to Disband Industrial Board

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—Assemblyman Frederick L. Hackenburg of New York announced today that he would move at a meeting of the State Industrial Survey Commission that that body stop work and disband as being "absolutely useless." Mr. Hackenburg is a member of the commission, which was created by the last legislature to study the matter of a 45-hour law burg said, "His wasting time and money for the sole purpose of delaying necessary forms in the administration of the labor law and the workmen's compensation law."

He based his claim that time and money were being wasted on the allegation that all information which had been obtained by the commission was already in the possession of the legislative committees of labor and industry. He further declared that with the exception of James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, who represented

The public on the commission, the personnel of the board was entirely political and represented a class of fundamental ideas with very little prospect of coming together on matters of essential importance.

Many Matters For Federation

Executive Committee of Federation of Women's Clubs Discusses T. B. Christmas Seal Sale, Sunday Movies and Other Matters.

Considerable important business was transacted at the meeting of the executive committee of The Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs held at the Kingston City Library on Thursday afternoon. Matters of public health, education, motion pictures, etc., as well as the naming of the delegate to the coming State Federation convention were considered.

Mrs. A. Ray Powley, the president, presided. Dr. Mary Gage-Day, chairman of the public health and motion picture committees, reported on both subjects. As to public health, Dr. Day stated that all of the preliminary work of getting out 10,000 letters containing Christmas Tuberculosis Seals, for this year's sale, had been done and the tuberculosis committee would be entirely ready to start the campaign in Ulster county on time.

Regarding motion picture news, Dr. Day told of the Eastman Kodak people putting on great educational films, relating to geography, practical art, civics, general sciences, health and hygiene in several of the largest cities in the country. She also presented a resolution opposing Sunday movies for Kingston, which will be acted upon at the open meeting on Saturday of this week.

It was voted to continue the Federation membership in the Chamber of Commerce, and also voted that the dues to the C. of C. be paid.

Mrs. Powley, the president, was named as the delegate to the State Federation convention to be held this fall, with power to choose her alternate and to name other delegates.

In response to the appeal received from Mrs. Thomas Hayes for knitted afghans for the Tuberculosis Hospital patients, it was stated that some of the clubs preferred to contribute soft, warm, bright colored wool blankets, and the Atharhacton Club had such a blanket on exhibit.

Announcement was made of the open meeting on Saturday at 2:30 o'clock at the chapel of the First Reformed Church, when the Monday Club, entertaining, will present as their speaker the Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady, whose topic will be "The Enjoyment of the Beautiful."

Wadsworth Is Children's Friend

Gives Straightforward Answer on His Attitude on Legislation for Protection and Betterment of Young People.

Men in public office are sometimes given to side-stepping and avoiding a direct answer to questions of public welfare. United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., is not that sort of man.

Ask Senator Wadsworth a question and you get a square and fair answer. The other day Miss Jeanie V. Miner, an authority on child welfare, asked him a question.

"I am told that on the question of child labor legislation generally you are a confirmed reactionary," she said. "On the other hand, your record of fine service to the nation on lines other than those involving welfare problems is publicly recognized. But as a social worker dealing with the education and protection of working children may I ask for an expression of your personal views on this,—to me, at least—vitally important matter?"

And there came a straightforward answer from that honest, straight-thinking Wadsworth.

"I am very glad to have an opportunity to state to you and others interested, my attitude on this question. I opposed the 20th amendment to the Constitution because I believed that it was the wrong method of solving this important problem. I am utterly opposed to the exploitation of children in industry. I believe that every child in every state should enjoy the privilege of continuous school attendance. I believe that children should be adequately protected against hazardous employment everywhere.

"I am justly proud of the steady progress my own state has made in this direction.

"I have always urged upon the membership of my party an active interest in the enactment of such laws and strong support for their subsequent enforcement.

"To my mind the problems of child labor can best be dealt with by the education of public opinion in those states which now have inadequate child labor laws.

"The continued centralization of control in Washington will, if persisted in, destroy our federal form of government. On the other hand, demands of public opinion in the several states should be enforced. This, to my mind, is the proper method of dealing with child labor. It is the method which I have always supported, and which I shall continue to support as long as I am in public life."

In James W. Wadsworth, Jr., the children of New York state have a friend who will stand by them staunchly.

You always know where James W. Wadsworth, Jr., stands and that is the kind of man we need to represent us in Washington.

POULTRY

BLACKHEAD MOST SERIOUS DISEASE

The name "blackhead" comes from the fact that the head sometimes turns dark color, although this is not an ever-present symptom. This condition frequently affects turkeys, and more particularly the young than old, but in rare cases it has been known to affect chickens. For turkeys it is a most serious disease, and often makes turkey raising difficult, writes Dr. George H. Conn in the Farm Journal.

The disease is caused by the ameba melagridis. This can be found in the affected birds in the liver and the bowels. The disease is spread by droppings from affected birds. The first symptoms noticed are a dullness and a drooping of the tail and wings. The feathers are ruffled, and the birds become inactive. A yellowish-green diarrhea follows, together with lack of appetite and rapid weakening and loss of flesh. Death comes in from three days to a week after the first symptoms, although in extreme cases the bird may live ten days. Occasionally the disease develops a chronic form which will linger on for many weeks.

The very best sanitary measures must be taken immediately. Sick birds should be separated from the well birds, and the well ones put in new quarters. Frequently it is necessary to discontinue the raising of turkeys for a year or so on an infected farm. In securing new birds to start the flock, it is always advisable to determine whether or not this condition has been present in the flock at any previous season. Birds from an infected flock should not be sold to other breeders.

Thorough disinfection, especially of the places where the flocks roost, is necessary. Be careful to see that when feeding and watering the flock everything is as sanitary as possible. Potassium permanganate placed in the drinking water, and also dissolved in water and mixed with feed, is a preventive of this disease. Use of this remedy with every hatch of turkeys until they are at least several weeks old is worth-while insurance against loss of young turkeys.

Important That Ducks Have Sufficient Water

Ducks must have water when they eat. The duck has no crop such as the chicken has; its food will clog and choke it unless water is provided at meal time. Water must be deep enough to cover the holes in the beak. Note how the ducks blow out the air and dust from their nostrils when they have the luxury of snorting in deep water.

Do not give ducks, geese or chickens sweet milk one day and sour milk the next. The sour milk is better for them; sweet milk lacks the lactic acid which is wholesome, and will give the eyes shut and clog the beaks since ducks fairly bathe their heads in it if deep enough. Ducks are not naturally dirty and they will not thrive in damp and dirt. When they go down on their legs, fall backwards or act crazy they are either suffering from coccidiosis, a parasitic disease of the intestines caused largely from eating over fowl-sick ground that is infected; or they are lacking in mineral elements in the ration. It is a good plan to put sand in their mash once a day, and also to give them bone meal or meat scraps.

Use Sodium Fluoride to Destroy Lice on Fowls

Don't allow lice to get a good foothold in your flock. The entire flock can be treated with sodium fluoride, a white powder that can be purchased in bulk. This powder can be applied by taking a pinch and working it well down between the feathers next to the skin around the neck and vent.

Equal parts of blue or mercuric ointment and vaseline is also effective. Place a small quantity of the ointment about the size of a pea on the skin below the vent. Be sure and treat every bird in the flock, for the fowl that gets away will carry enough lice to reinfest the entire flock in a short time.

Markers for Layers

No doubt, many flocks are lost profitable than they might be, because the owners have no method by which they can identify old hens which are not worth keeping beyond the second year. One of the simplest methods is to use ordinary metal beads which can be placed around the bird's left leg when put in winter quarters, and a similar bead put around the right leg in 1926. This method of marking will make it easy to cull a flock.

Turkeys for Breeding

Those who are interested in securing turkeys for breeding stock should make their selection early. Usually the early-maturing turkeys are sold for the early trade and the slower maturing fowls are kept over for the later markets. Breeding stock should come from the very best stock. Turkeys that make rapid gains and mature quickly are the ones best suited for breeding purposes. It is a common mistake to take the smaller birds on account of cheapness.

Not Hard to Protect

Trees From Rodents

Rabbits and mice destroy thousands of dollars' worth of young trees annually, according to the observations of a well-known fruit specialist, who recommends the use of some scheme of protecting the growths. Several kinds of protectors are commonly used for this purpose, namely, heavy rooting paper which does not contain tar, or wood veneer protector, as sold by nurseries and fruit supply houses. However, a galvanized wire of one-quarter of an inch mesh is said to be the best. While it is more expensive than the other two, it will last for many years and does not have to be removed from the tree in the spring, as should be done with the paper and wood protectors.

The protectors should be placed around the trees in such a way that mice cannot get in from underneath and at a height of about 30 inches, so that the entire trunk may be protected. If the wire mesh is used, cutting the wire is advised in order that the protection formed will be four or five inches in diameter to allow for several years' growth of the trunk.
